Interview Summary	This interview focuses on Saint Joseph's GAA club from its beginning in 1959 to today. The group talk about the building of the club and the volunteers that helped. They discuss the successes of the club under Fr. Sinnott and then how it fell away when he left, before returning to form and the men and women involved. They speak of their earliest memories and playing at the club and for the county as well as involvement in other sports. They speak about the club focusing on handball and their hopes for having handball champions in the future. After discussing the ban on foreign sports and dances the group talk about the future of the club. Finally they speak with pride of the achievements of the club in many sports and how the club is a focus for young people in these harsh economic times. 00:48 Talks of the club being started in 1959 when Fr. Sinnott a local priest came across a group of boys playing cards and joined them and told them about setting up a hurling and football club for U14's. 02:06 Speaks of collecting money in a biscuit tin at the Pat Adam's Field where they played and the club being built by volunteers. 02:55 Talks of there being no planning permission and having to move because of being situated on a bad bend. Mentions the Wexford team coming home in 1960 and this being the push to build. Also mentions those involved in the design and construction of the club. 04:34 Talks of being involved in table tennis in the hall but it being too narrow for the length of the tables because of available timber lengths. Mentions Saint Joseph's and the local publican giving £300 on the condition that the corner of the field was not sold.

	06:33 Speaks of the volunteers being bought drinks by the local priest. Mentions Aidan Roche a stone mason who was fond of a few pints. Also mentions the ladies committee who supported the volunteers. 08:05 Talks of the small local church and people attending 10 o'clock mass in bad weather and the priest Fr. Harry requesting permission of the bishop to use the club house as it was bigger and closer to the town. However it was refused. 10:24 Speaks of Fr. Harry going to the Minister for Justice and getting access to a military fort in Duncannon for two weeks a year. Mentions having mass in the open in the square in the fort. 11:29 Talks of Fr.
