What does it take to move your idea to success? Join our August webinar with Curtis Sprouse, President and CEO of Eureka Connect, to find out. Curtis sits on the Board of Directors for the Institute for Biomedical Entrepreneurship (IBE) and works with startups frequently. During this webinar, he will address the knowledge and funding gaps that restrict many great ideas from advancing and how the IBE is addressing these two areas. Curtis has extensive experience with Fortune 500 pharmaceutical, biotech, healthcare-related software and device companies. He has a significant track record of raising capital, building life science driven businesses, creating value, and setting the stage for investor exit. Tune in on August 28 to find out what makes a great idea and what it takes to move that concept from idea to success.
