CREATING THE FUTURE WITH STEM KITS

WHAT IS STEM?
Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) is a way of teaching students how these different disciplines complement each other and operate in real-world situations. One brand that takes this methodology to heart is Kano. The London-based company started back in 2017 with its first Build Your Own Computer Kit and since then has gone on to attract a worldwide community of users and fans. Today, it offers not only a variety of fun DIY creations, but last year unveiled the new Computer Kit Touch, which allows builders to make their own touchscreen tablet, on which they can learn the basics of coding. Your first experience with computing and code should be simple, playful, and powerful,” said Kano co-founder and CEO Alex Klein at the launch event for the new product. “The Computer Kit Touch takes the experience of building your own computer to a new level, by revealing the secrets of touch interaction. Combining block based and text based coding, it shows you how modern computing systems work. It gets you inside the screen rather than just in front of it, and provides a set of art, music, and programming tools – not just toys.” Kano has also announced new lines that are sure to be a runaway success with kids: Harry Potter Coding Kit, Star Wars The Force Coding Kit and Disney Frozen 2 Coding Kit. All provide an easy and fun way for young minds to create a little magic of their own.

BUILDING THE FUTURE
With parents always on the lookout for ways to improve the skills and educational development of their children, STEM-based products offer a great way to encourage learning while also having fun. They are the perfect gift for children, as they are safe and help not only grow their scientific understanding but feed their imagination as well. Exertis now stocks the full range of Kano products, so the next time you’re talking to your representative be sure to ask how these STEM kits can bolster your sales throughout the year.
