Gary Card is an artist who has become well known in the creative service industry as a set designer for fashion. High end fashion shows, fashion shoots and fashion stores. He's represented for this purpose by Camilla Lowther as a set designer and as an illustrator.

He's an exceptional talent whose energy and confidence is reflected in the work he makes.

FIG has only a little idea of what it is that Card plans to exhibit at Osman Yousefzada's new studio space in Waterloo. He's making the work now and won't finish until the last moments before the guests arrive for the private view on the 31st. He says, '...don't be scared as it always comes together in the end....that's how I work'.

The gallery has only seen a couple of versions of, The Evolution of Lula, a nightmarish rendering of what we are led to believe is a portrait of a society heiress whose bright orange hair resonates with her emerald green earrings and matching eye shadow.
