

Faire Marketplace curates six Bay Area makers for holiday gifts

As you're building holiday gift lists, look no further than Valencia or Hayes streets to delight everyone on your list.

San Francisco-based Faire, a curated marketplace for local retailers and independent brands, commissioned a survey conducted online by The Harris Poll among over 2,000 U.S. adults to find out what will be on everyone's wish lists this year. This holiday season nearly 200 million Americans (61%) are planning to shop for many of their gifts at local retailers.

Use this gift guide to discover local favorites to delight everyone on your list this year—we've even included a special something for those in the Bay Area who may be missing their hometowns this time of year.