

Jen Gaston / professional floor covering designer

Jen is a dedicated flooring designer with over 15 years of home design experience. She cut her teeth as a florist, as a visual display artist, then held several roles as a retail manager. Most recently, she was a Professional Organizer, planning and overseeing many interior design and remodel projects. She thrives on being an active listener and is great at practical solutions for a home.

Her passion project was undergoing a major remodel in her 1928 home. The home was even featured in the Old Home Show here in South Park. All parts of the home were renovated, but her favorite spot is her marble-covered bathroom and Talavera tile kitchen backsplash complemented by old-world hickory floors.

When not at work, you can find her in the garden, in the ocean surfing with her partner James or cooking with her two sons. She also loves volunteering; her favorite charities are The Princess Project which supports prom going teens and the Jimmy Miller Foundation for Veterans.

I am a creative, dynamic, and dedicated professional. I will feed my inner curiosities by asking questions and seeking new knowledge. I will always put my best foot forward by providing excellent customer service, listening to my clients, and hope to do my best to advise them on design selections. My ultimate goal is to continue my life's journey of making people happy and making spaces more beautiful.
