COLLECTION

Godfrey Hirst

The lights dim, the curtain opens, and the choreography begins, sequences, steps and movements performed by dancers. In ballet, these sequences are usually very structured and precise, incorporating repeated actions.

Turn your focus to contemporary dance though, and suddenly the notion of sequence looks very different. It may appear fluid and free-flowing, with movements interpreted by the dancer, yet it too has a structure of its own that helps to tell a story.

Dance often begins with isolated movements pieced together by a choreographer to create a carefully curated performance. We invite you to explore, arrange, create and merge the Choreography Collection of planks and develop your own cohesive rhythm on the floor.

collection

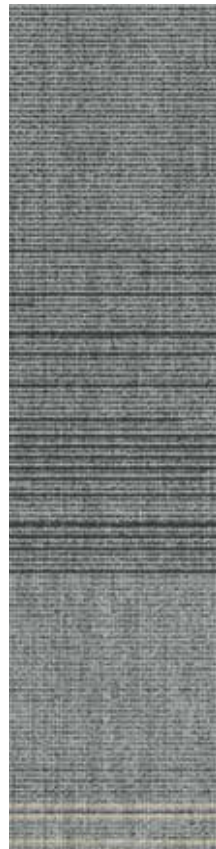

A combination of five unique carpet planks, the Choreography Collection is a progressive composition of patterns designed to work together or solo. This versatile collection features one synchronised colour palette to make specifying a co-ordinated floor easy. Create beautiful transitions across the floor or compose defined areas and zones within a space by mixing and matching two or more ranges.

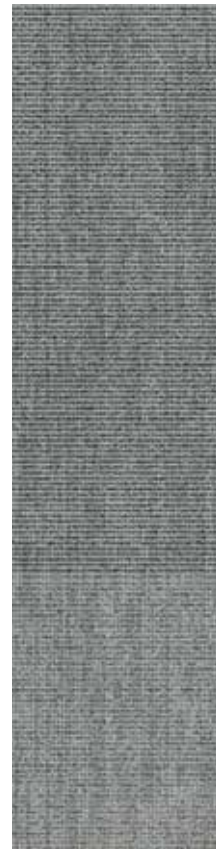

SEQUENCE

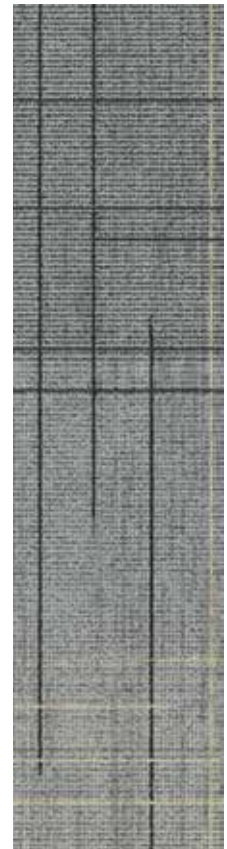

PERFORMANCE

MOTION

CONCERTO

FUSION

Sequence, Motion and Fusion stand centre stage with more prominent linear highlights, whilst Performance and Concerto provide back-up for a refined and understated look.

Each pattern is also supported by a light to dark gradient in the background. When cut into planks this presents a variable rhythm on the floor. And just like a choreographed dance routine where no two movements are exactly the same, every individual plank varies to create a truly unique floorscape.

CUSTOMISED CHOREOGRAPHY

We understand that you might prefer to move to the beat of your own drum, so we have made it easy to add custom colours to the Choreography ranges. Take a look at our online visualiser and create your own custom Sequence, Motion or Fusion planks using the highlight colours from Spectrum and then mix them with the less patterned Performance or Concerto ranges.

SEQUENCE
7300 Movement

sequence colour palette

The structure and precise design of Sequence features a classic vertical, linear pattern. The balletic and ordered feel possesses a repeated light, mid and dark cluster of linear highlights with each tile featuring a different section of the overall pattern.

Sequence but with a half pirouette! Motion features the same structured linear pattern as Sequence, but turned horizontally providing a completely different look on the floor. The horizontal design adds an element of excitement to the floor with its short bursts of light, mid and dark lines scattered throughout.

A male and female dancer are captured in a dynamic, suspended pose against a dark background. The female dancer, on the left, wears a light grey leotard and a white tutu, with her arms raised and hands in a graceful, pointed position. The male dancer, on the right, is shirtless and wears black pants, with his arms extended and hands in a similar pointed position. They are both looking towards the camera with intense expressions. The floor is covered in a dark, textured material with a grid-like pattern.

FUSION
7500 Contemporary

fusion colour palette

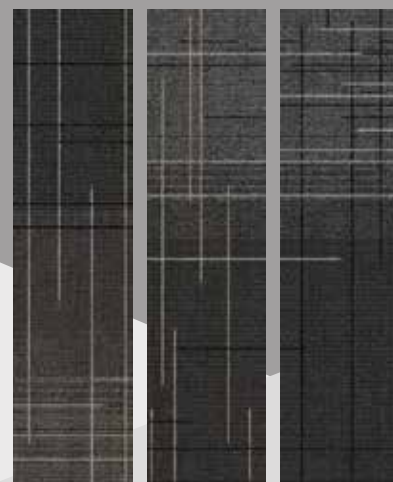

Fusion takes a more contemporary approach by blending and combining the vertical and horizontal lineations found in both the Sequence and Motion ranges. This unifying configuration provides a dramatic yet harmonious composition on the floor.
