

Exeter leader named to 2020 Women in Remarketing list

Stephanie Compton to participate in panel discussion at National Remarketing Conference

IRVING, Texas – (Dec. 14, 2020) -- Exeter Finance LLC, a non-prime auto finance company, has announced that Stephanie Compton, Director of Asset Remarketing, has been named to Auto Remarketing's "2020 Women in Remarketing" list, which recognizes "excellence among the leaders of the remarketing and used-car business, while also inspiring and fostering future leaders." Compton and the other honorees were initially recognized in the trade publication's May issue. Now, she will participate in the "2020 Women in Remarketing" panel discussion during the virtual National Remarketing Conference and Used Car Week event.

Compton has worked in asset remarketing at Exeter for nearly two years. In her current role as Director, she manages all aspects of the company's remarketing operations across the nation. This includes moving all of Exeter's repossessed assets to an auction partner's location and then liquidating those assets as quickly and efficiently as possible. In total, she has more than 20 years of experience in the industry and has also worked at Santander Consumer USA, Diversified Vehicle Services and PAR North America. She earned an Associate of Science degree in Business at Indiana Wesleyan University in Marion, Ind.

"I've enjoyed working in the asset remarketing field for more than 20 years, and I am humbled, honored and excited to be included on the Women in Remarketing list," Compton said. "We have a wonderful remarketing team here at Exeter, and I'm so proud to represent them and our organization as part of this incredible industry honor."

The "2020 Women in Remarketing" panel discussion will take place on Wed., Dec. 16, at 12:00 p.m. CST as part of Cherokee Media Group's National Remarketing Conference and Used Car Week virtual conference. For more information about the event, visit the website at <https://www.usedcarweek.biz/>.
