

YUMI Poop Pantone

Know what the color means:

Greenish Black

Common for newborn's first poop. When older, green poo can be from foods high in iron.

Yellow Brown

Common for formula-fed babies.

Mustard Yellow

Common for exclusively breastfed babies.

Black

Black for older babies - not newborns - may be a sign of something more serious.

White or Grey

Not normal, could be a sign of a liver issue.

Red

Poop may appear more red after red foods, but blood in stools could be some constipation or something more serious.

Greenish Brown

Common for babies transitioning to solids. May reflect foods they are eating.
