Product Description:

The Griffith Seat range is a folded and perforated sheetmetal design that adds interest and impact to any environment. Available in multiple configurations such as bench, seat, and wall-mounted seat, the product utilises high-grade aluminium in its construction and a durable powder coat finish with corrosion and vandal resistant coatings. It also makes use of Stoddart's huge range of perforation options, and accessories like arm rests and skate stops can be easily integrated into the products.

The flexibility of the design and its cost-effective fabrication method make the Griffith range suitable for almost any location and any mounting. And while the aesthetic is geared towards the urban environment, these seats look great in rural/natural settings too.
