PROPERTY DEVELOPMENT

Delivering Meaningful Change

Chiodini Architects' new space has allowed them to maximize space utilization – reducing their overall footprint while increasing workstations. By combining neutral furniture with bright pops of red throughout the space, they were able to create a modern aesthetic that reflects and reinforces their brand.

Fostering New Behavior

The new light-scale workstations support impromptu collaboration, increasing idea sharing and mentoring between employees. Glass-walled private offices and conference rooms promote visibility at all levels of the organization, and also provide natural light and outdoor views throughout the space.

“Our new state of the art office space is absolutely perfect for our office and staff needs – efficient, open, interactive, pleasant, and aesthetically well-designed, due largely to Allsteel’s furniture and wall systems. We were able to reduce our lease space by one-third, yet increased our workstations and support spaces. I would not change a thing.”
