HBF Textiles Fall 2019 Collection Pursues the Great Outdoors

- Fall 2019 Collection Draws Inspiration from the Classic, Rustic Elements of Autumn -

Hickory, NC – September 30, 2019 — HBF Textiles is embracing the elements for their annual Fall Collection, designed by HBF Textiles VP of Design + Creative Direction Mary Jo Miller. Charming yet timeless, the Fall 2019 Collection further blurs the line between contract and residential for textiles that feel lived in and comfortable, but still strikingly fresh and polished. With five distinct fabrics - from a classic corduroy to a textural sweater - Fall 2019 transports the user to a cozy cabin in the woods while maintaining high-performance specifications and an approachable price point for any project.

“The Fall 2019 collection recalls distinct, textural memories of time spent at our cabin in the woods,” explains Miller. “Some of my fondest childhood snapshots include specific fabrics that resonated with me during those trips. Pulling inspiration from the plaid design of my grandfather’s fishing jacket to my cozy lived in sweater, Fall 2019 brings a sense of familiar sophistication that is timeless and specific.”

The five designs include: Roy’s Cords, Picnic Plaid, All Terrain, Happy Camper, and Sweater Weather, with a total of 35 colorways. Highlighting chenille, a yarn known for its tactile quality and soft appeal, Fall 2019 balances textural comfort with visual interest to create a truly versatile collection for contract interiors. Roy’s Cords reference a widely ribbed corduroy in rich, slightly retro shades; Picnic Plaid recalls a wooly plaid blanket with a soft hand and vibrant hues; All Terrain features sustainable performance with the look of beautifully distressed leather; Happy Camper’s charming checkered weave adds subtle contrast; Sweater Weather brings heavy-duty indoor/outdoor specifications through its snug, intricately woven pattern.

The Fall 2019 Collection features performance and sustainability with four of the five patterns woven with bleach-cleanable fibers and two fabrics made of recycled content. Fall 2019 boasts impressive abrasion resistance with Wyzenbeek double rub numbers exceeding 55,000 - 100,000. The entire collection is SCS Indoor Advantage™ Gold certified and is well priced from $26-$64 per yard.
