Building Blocks for a Performance Workspace

What makes a workspace inspiring? It is different for every office and every worker. The Terrace frame-and-tile solution offers functionality, flexibility, scalable features, and refined design details and, when paired with other Allsteel products, creates an efficient and beautiful personal space.

Terrace is the foundation for people to do their best work.

A Terrace workspace offers everything needed to be productive – ample worksurface and storage space plus personal touches like an integrated marker board and hanging shelf.

Designed for Versatility

Office furniture must work harder than ever, which is why Terrace is agile enough to accommodate virtually every open-plan workstation need. With sturdy steel panel construction, Terrace stands up to years of use and reconfiguration.

Workstations

Terrace panels for support and power distribution are complemented by laminate gallery panels that offer a clean aesthetic for open-plan workstations.

Benching

Lower-height panels topped with frosted glass for additional privacy create a panel-bench solution that supports individual work and team collaboration.

Reception

Footed panels with an integrated transaction top and open and enclosed storage are the elements for dual-purpose personal/welcoming stations.

Make it Yours

The beautiful thing about Terrace is its broad range of functional, ergonomic, and aesthetic options. It can support heads-down concentration or encourage open interaction. Mix and match a variety of details, from panel heights to height-adjustable worksurfaces, from versatile storage to personalized accessories. With an expansive selection of textiles and surface materials, you can create the perfect palette to complement your brand or style.

Extend the functionality of a Terrace spine wall by integrating a semi-private meeting area for team interaction.

Create One-of-a-Kind Environments

From the clean aesthetic of benching, to open collaborative spaces, to individual workstations, Terrace provides the platform for unique and functional designs that make a strong visual statement.
