Coast

Coast

Built for movement, Coast glides on casters that can lock in place to make it possible to improvise an interior. Coast is just as versatile as a partition and active wall but with added flexibility to maximize smaller spaces.

Modular, lightweight and graced with easy to understand connections, it is nimbly adaptive. Pick your modules, choose your frame color and wood finish and you're moving and grooving.

Select a frame module.

Building out your Coast starts with selecting a frame. There are two lengths, 48" and 24" both at 16" depth.

Add your storage.

Coast can accommodate low and tall storage, planter box or a base plinth. Don't need storage? Skip down to select your infill panels.

We got your back.

Since Coast is equipped with casters, you gain maximum flexibility to wheel your configuration around to reveal another side. Make sure to consider the reverse!

Add a fixed panel.

Infill panels can stand alone, above or beside your storage choice. These panels are available in ash, white oak, and walnut veneer or in a selection of our grade 1 laminates. You can also choose a cork, peg or whiteboard as your panels.

Add soft PET panels.

You have the option to add a hanging PET panel that holds acoustic properties and provides just the right amount of privacy and warmth. These panels are hung from the steel frame with leather straps. Choose light, medium or dark grey PET felt.

Long Shelf

Box Shelf

Did you pick a pegboard?

Pegboards with a low cubby include 1 long shelf (with 2 pegs), 1 box shelf (with 2 pegs) and 1 freestanding peg. Full-length pegboards include 2 long shelves (with 2 pegs each), 1 box shelf (with 2 pegs each) and 1 freestanding peg. Let us know if you have a different accessory preference in mind. Please note, pegboards cannot be back-to-back. Pro-tip: You can use the pegs to hang plants!

Coast Example Configuration Line Drawing

Set the example.

Here's an example of how Coast comes together.

Shown here is a common configuration of a pegboard with low storage, whiteboard and tall bookcase.

*note: pegboards cannot be back to back

Front

Pegboards are great functionally but also allow you to add a little personality into your space. Hang plants or swatches, display photos and move around as you see fit.

Utilize a tall bookcase and your plethora of resources can go wherever you do.

Back

Solid infill panels allow you to maximize space to collaborate, ideate and create.

Finishing touches.

Once you've selected your modules, select your finishes for the frame and wood components.

- 1 Select any standard RAL color for the frame without any up-charge or minimum. This is a great opportunity to add your unique thumbprint to your design.
- 2 Next, specify your choice of wood: white oak, ash, maple, walnut.

Your panels can also be cork, peg or whiteboard.
- 3 Remember, there are two sides to your configuration so feel free to mix it up! Select what's on the back.

Go Configure.

Modules in Coast can be placed anywhere in the configuration.

Consider how you need your space division to function and how the placement will gesture to its users. Since Coast is on wheels, nothing is static!

Coast | Greatest Hits

Browse some of our most sought after configurations or create your very own.

The Collaborator.

A little something for everyone. Display, brainstorm, and store all while partitioning space in an engaging way. Great to separate runs of desks or to have near a collaboration table.

Plant That Seed.

You don't have to sacrifice the beauty of the outdoors by working inside. Here, you get the best of both worlds. Nothing like a little plant-life to help that creative flow-state.

Tall Cubby

The Minimalist.

Not your average whiteboard, this simple configuration allows you to have everything at your fingertips.

The Great Divide.

Perfect as a mobile partition between runs of workstations or out in the open office, a Coast configuration like this one provides functional space division that is as much a reflection of company culture as it is of smart planning.
