

News release

May 1, 2019

Global art project celebrates the everyday heroes of Vancouver high schools

A public art installation created by and featuring photos of students from Skyview and Hudson's Bay high schools and Vancouver School of Arts and Academics will be on display at the Vancouver Community Library, 901 C Street, from May 13 to June 13.

The installation is part of a global art project called Inside Out Project. Inside Out gives everyone the opportunity to share their portrait and make a statement about what they stand for. Students and other school community members featured in the photos were nominated by classmates and staff because they are considered everyday heroes—people who work to make the school community better through large and small actions. The large scale portraits, measuring 36 by 53 inches each, will be visible from Evergreen and C streets and from inside the library.

Skyview photography students have been creating these public installments since 2015, this is the first year they've partnered with other VPS schools.

*Contact: Jenna Biggs, photography teacher, Skyview High School, Jenna.biggs@vansd.org
Lydia Brooks, photography teacher, Skyview High School, lydia.brooks@vansd.org
Bethany McCamish, photography teacher, Hudson's Bay High School, bethany.mccamish@vansd.org
Abby Davis, photography teacher, VSAA, abby.harris@vansd.org*

For media only (the public is not invited): An opening reception for artists, featured students and families will be held Thursday, May 16, 5 - 7 p.m., at the Vancouver Community Library, Columbia Room.