- Introduction to international marketing
- The international context of corporations
- International marketing strategies
- Features of the marketing-mix specific to the international context
- Trends in international marketing

Learning OutcomesInternational Marketing

On successful completion, students will be able to

- transfer well-known marketing management concepts to an international context, recognize limitations of their transferability, and continually develop these concepts.
- perform a structural analysis of the context surrounding specific internationalizing decisions, recognize the various contexts in these scenarios, and formulate alternative decisions.
- assess different strategic and political marketing alternatives in specific scenarios using relevant criteria and develop a decision template for developing marketing plans.
- combine actual issues from industry with the most recent scientific insights into successful marketing approaches in order to develop the skills and knowledge required to manage international marketing in a corporate setting.

International Marketing

Course Code: DLMMARE01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MBA	English		5	None

Course Description

The most important task of international marketing is recognizing which international markets and business-related dependencies should be targeted for the marketing of products and services. The course begins with defining key terms and concepts associated with the field of marketing management and then extrapolates these to the international context. The first section of the course equips students with an understanding of how to perform a structured analysis of international markets, using elements of the “PEST Analysis” (political, legal, economical, socio-cultural, and technological frameworks). Strategical aspects of marketing as well as instruments used to analyze the marketing mix are discussed as they relate to the international context. Inadequate consideration of marketing orientation as well as underestimating the impact of cultural differences both present serious threats to the success of any corporation. This course shall therefore analyze and discuss contemporary case studies involving multinational corporations to elucidate these potential threats. Industry-based case studies also offer students the opportunity to put into practice the knowledge and tools acquired in this course to address some of the specific challenges of international marketing.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- transfer well-known marketing management concepts to an international context, recognize limitations of their transferability, and continually develop these concepts.
- perform a structural analysis of the context surrounding specific internationalizing decisions, recognize the various contexts in these scenarios, and formulate alternative decisions.
- assess different strategic and political marketing alternatives in specific scenarios using relevant criteria and develop a decision template for developing marketing plans.
- combine actual issues from industry with the most recent scientific insights into successful marketing approaches in order to develop the skills and knowledge required to manage international marketing in a corporate setting.

Advanced Research Methods

Course Code: DLMARM01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

Advanced research methods, specifically business research, is scientific inquiry that attempts to uncover new information which helps a business improve performance, maximizing shareholder value while adhering to ethical and moral compliance standards. Managers seeking to conduct empirical research must maintain validity, reliability, and trustworthiness when utilizing scientific methodologies in order to produce meaningful and actionable results. Research proposals are typically written prior to conducting research, which have a certain structure, enabling the researcher to properly plan, conduct, and analyze case studies and surveys. Different data collection strategies are used to collect both qualitative and quantitative data, depending on the research proposal goals. Managers utilize their understanding of research methodologies to accurately assess the quality of research.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand and apply scientific methodologies in conducting empirical research.
- plan, design, and prepare research proposals.
- differentiate between different types of case studies, select and apply different data collection strategies.
- plan, conduct, and analyze case studies and surveys.
- scientifically analyze quantitative and qualitative data.
- conduct evaluation research to determine quality of research.

Course Description

In a global economy characterized by greater competition, companies operating internationally need comprehensive market-driven strategies to survive in the market place. The course provides students with the relevant concepts for understanding the international environment of the company with focus on the demand side/the consumer. Students learn how differences in culture, economic systems, and political environments impact consumers' behavior in terms of decision-making in the fields of acquisition, consumption, and disposal of products, services, experiences, and ideas.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- outline the purchase decision-making process undertaken by the consumer.
- describe the internal and external influences on the consumer decision-making processes.
- identify the different research methods available to companies to collect relevant data regarding their consumers and their behavior
- develop a plan to generate required market research data regarding consumer behavior and decision-making.

Course Description

In everyday working life, enormous amounts of data are continuously generated, for example in production processes, customer data or population statistics. In this context, the field of statistics is a useful discipline that enables the user to analyze and evaluate this data in order to get to the information content of the underlying data. This information can make a valuable contribution to the control or optimization of underlying processes and knowledge, or help to support strategic or social decisions. Methods of descriptive and inferential statistics are considered in uni-, bi- and multivariate ways and discussed with reference to probability theory.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- recognize and explain the role and importance of statistical methods in practical decision-making processes.
- understand the relevance of data to answer empirical questions.
- apply statistical methods in the overall context of concrete problems.
- solve statistical problems by using special statistical software.

Course Description

In a global economy characterized by greater competition, companies operating internationally need comprehensive market-driven strategies in order to survive in the market place. The course allows students to explore marketing research, the information-gathering arm of marketing practice. The topic is viewed primarily from the perspective of a consumer of marketing research, i.e. a busy manager who needs information to guide decision making. Given their role in decision-making regarding marketing and sourcing marketing research, it is helpful for managers to understand how producers of research approach the process. This background will help you as a manager to become a better-informed consumer of research who is able to participate in research design, evaluate the quality of marketing information that crosses your desk, and conduct marketing research projects yourself when appropriate.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- recognize and promote the importance of marketing research methodologies in supporting key marketing management decisions.

The focus of this module is to convey understanding of the effects of online communication media in marketing. For this purpose, the conceptual and strategic framework of online and social media marketing will be defined and critically reflected. The operative fields of application of the entire online marketing mix will be explained, mechanisms of action to achieve the set marketing goals will be presented and concrete recommendations for implementation will be discussed. In addition, the legal framework of online and social media marketing will be deepened and the entire process of managing and monitoring the impact of online media will be examined. This module will conclude with a discussion and forecast of future developments in online marketing.

Learning OutcomesOnline and Social Media Marketing

On successful completion, students will be able to

- familiarize themselves with the general conditions of online and social media marketing.

Course Description

The discoveries of consumer behavior research, coupled with advances in the fields of big data and artificial intelligence in particular, increase the effectiveness and efficiency of marketing activities. The transparent customer seems to be becoming more and more a reality and raises the question of legal, social and ethical limits in marketing. The seminar "Marketing Responsibility" deals with this topic: What is the current status regarding the application of artificial intelligence and analysis in the context of Big Data? How good are the prognosis validities of existing methods? Where do the boundaries lie between what marketing can or cannot do in the future and what should be allowed? Which standards and criteria should be used for evaluation? How do companies have to position themselves against this background? Students learn to analyze selected topics and case studies independently and to link them to already known concepts, as well as to question and discuss them critically. They will be able to use appropriate concepts, methods and instruments to successfully deal with new types of questions relating to corporate and marketing responsibility. This enables them to define their own role in marketing and to act proactively in these areas.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the development and effectiveness of marketing measures and analyses in a historical context.

Strategic Management

Course Code: DLMBSME01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MBA	English		5	None

Course Description

Various methods of strategic market analysis are presented in this course so as to allow students to evaluate risks and opportunities in markets and understand strengths and weaknesses of organizations that face specific market situations. Supported by new developments in the field of market research, the process for identifying and analyzing core competencies and competitive advantages in national and international environments is discussed at length. Students are supported to plan strategic alternatives and to implement and control these by taking on fictitious roles within the organization. Exercises and case studies help students to identify with the role of management and participate in the strategic planning process as well as in operational management. This helps students understand the problems companies regularly face and comprehend how methods of modern management can be used in order to solve these.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

Digital Analytics and Strategies

Course Code: DLMMADAS01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

Marketing has a wide range of online instruments and data at its disposal. However, due to the large number of information sources, it is a challenge to extract data, information and key figures based on their valuable contribution to online marketing strategies. Building on the theoretical foundations of suitable metrics to describe and analyze user behavior, key performance indicators (KPIs) are developed, discussed and reflected with regard to their relevance in online marketing. Subsequently, the acquired knowledge is transferred into online strategies, content marketing measures and online campaigns. The course concludes with the identification and discussion of further development possibilities and digital analytic trends in marketing.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the scope of digital analytics and define the field of web analytics including typical goals and application areas.

In times of global and highly competitive markets, rapidly changing consumer needs and a media environment in a state of upheaval, marketing needs to work with these changes and proactively respond to them. Thus, this module focuses on current theoretical and/or empirical topics or projects from the fields of marketing, communication, brand management and sales. This seminar prepares students for the final master thesis by requiring them to write a seminar paper to conclude the course successfully.

Learning OutcomesSeminar: Current Issues in Marketing

On successful completion, students will be able to

- research scientific content and topics independently and acquire sound knowledge in marketing based on the interpretation of international, peer-reviewed journals and introductory literature in the field of marketing.
- identify problem areas and trends in order to discuss them in a theoretical context.
- develop analytical and critical skills and competencies to assess and further develop contemporary strategic approaches.
- independently and critically analyze studies, new findings and theoretical references and interpret them in the context of their own seminar paper.
- prepare a seminar paper and prepare for the drafting of their final Master's thesis.
- deepen and consolidate their practical marketing and sales knowledge.

Course Description

The seminar "Current Issues in Marketing" deals with current topics on new developments in marketing, for example in marketing research, brand or product management, as well as communication management. Students will acquire relevant scientific skills and practical abilities. They will discuss current problems and developments and consider the body of academic research. They will be coached to critically interpret studies, current scholarly articles and discussions from international peer-reviewed marketing journals, specialist forums, congresses or operational practice and to present their results in the overall context of marketing.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- research scientific content and topics independently and acquire sound knowledge in marketing based on the interpretation of international, peer-reviewed journals and introductory literature in the field of marketing.
- identify problem areas and trends in order to discuss them in a theoretical context.
- develop analytical and critical skills and competencies to assess and further develop contemporary strategic approaches.
- independently and critically analyze studies, new findings and theoretical references and interpret them in the context of their own seminar paper.
- prepare a seminar paper and prepare for the drafting of their final Master's thesis.
- deepen and consolidate their practical marketing and sales knowledge.

Contents

- The topics for the seminar paper are to be taken from the subject areas of general marketing, online marketing & social media, marketing communication, international marketing, consumer behavior and media usage, e-commerce, CRM, sales and branding and may also deal with current topics such as gender marketing, neuro-marketing, guerilla marketing or marketing automation. Regardless of the specific issue at hand, the focus should be on identifying, elaborating and discussing relevant scientific theory and practical references as well as the identification and evaluation of appropriate empirical studies and findings. The findings from the academic literature will be evaluated, interpreted and synthesized to support the central argument of the student's written seminar paper.
- An up-to-date topic list is available on the learning platform and provides the foundation of the module.

Marketing Project

Course Code: DLMMFS01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The module "Marketing Project" focuses on topics of operative marketing. In this seminar, students are familiarized with the methodology of developing a marketing project. Areas dealt with are research, methodology and analysis. Students learn how to introduce a product or service to the market by researching and defining all areas of the classic marketing mix. They define a target group, research the market, describe the product or service, develop a pricing strategy, create a communication and a distribution plan. Students are required to perform both primary and secondary research. In this seminar, students acquire basic practical knowledge by applying the theoretical approaches of the marketing mix to a real project. They collect data on the market and the target group and, based on this, work out a marketing plan including a rough business plan.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- transfer their knowledge of marketing to a practical example.
- know how to develop a marketing plan.
- create and develop a marketing plan independently using available data.

Contents

1. Choice of topics: Development of creative product or service ideas
2. Target group definition: Who is your client? How large is this market segment?
3. Market research: How big is the market for this product or service? What is the market trend?
4. Product definition: What is the core product or service you offer? What additional elements are part of this offer?
5. Pricing: How much will you sell the product or service for? What does the competition charge? What are your approximate costs? What is your target group willing to pay?
6. Communication: How do you communicate your offer to the target group? Through which communication channels?
7. Distribution: Which distribution channels are available?

Leadership

Course Code: DLMBLSE01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MBA	English		5	None

Course Description

In today's knowledge-based society, employees are a firm's most valuable resource. A key responsibility of leadership is to develop the knowledge, expertise, and skills of employees. Good leadership is crucial for the continued success of a firm in the face of increasingly competitive markets. This course presents the necessary competencies of the leader in a modern, knowledge-based organization. Central questions raised by modern leadership theory are presented and discussed. In doing so, the course focuses on requirements and instruments of professional leadership, aspects of situational leadership, and leadership communication and interactions, both in the context of strategic management and change processes. The methodological and conceptual foundations of leadership are presented to students, along with empirical examples and best-practice principles, with the intent for students to master the challenges of enhancing the firm's most valuable asset—its employees—via professional and contemporary leadership practices.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

Communication and Public Relations II

Course Code: DLMWKB02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

This course expands upon the understanding of communication and public relations with important findings on consumer perception. Students learn to assess basic perception insights from a target audience perspective and apply them to develop communication tools. Furthermore, techniques for creating attention, conveying information, designing experiences and increasing learning are discussed and supported by practical examples. In addition, students learn about the different approaches and instruments for measuring success and the effect of communication and understand which instrument is suitable for which problem and under which conditions.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand basic perception and assessment processes of communication.
- draw conclusions for the development of communication messages and develop instruments that increase the effect of communication.
- evaluate and optimize communication measures with regard to their effectiveness.
- know instruments for measuring the effect of communication, assess their advantages and disadvantages and use these instruments in daily business.

Contents

1. Communication and Perception
 - 1.1 The Effect of Communication
 - 1.2 Psychological and Neuroscientific Findings
 - 1.3 Image, Text and Sound in Communication
2. Optimizing Implementation: Organization and Positioning
 - 2.1 Integrated Communication
 - 2.2 Positioning
3. Optimizing Implementation: Situation Analysis, Objectives and Target Audiences
 - 3.1 Situation Analysis
 - 3.2 Objectives and Planning
 - 3.3 Target Audiences

4. Planning, Concepts and Staging
 - 4.1 Strategy and Planning
 - 4.2 Conceptual Work
 - 4.3 Dramaturgy and Staging
5. The Media Mix - Practical Examples
 - 5.1 Television Advertising
 - 5.2 Live Communication
 - 5.3 Public Relations
6. Social Media in the Communication Mix
 - 6.1 Owned, Paid and Earned Media
 - 6.2 Social Media and Corporate Communication
7. Communication Controlling
 - 7.1 Added Value Through Communication
 - 7.2 Strategic and Operational Communication Controlling
 - 7.3 Instruments
8. Responsible Communication
 - 8.1 Socially Oriented Communication
 - 8.2 Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR)
 - 8.3 Legal Considerations

User Interface and Experience

Course Code: DLMAIEUIUX01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

UX design is crucial to the development of new IT services and applications and enhances the quality of the outcome. Applying UX design techniques can significantly and positively change the software development process, and good UX design is the result of effective teamwork. Within this course the students will understand the mindset, basic techniques, and impact of UX design on IT projects. They will learn how the UX design process works and the role of the UX designer within IT projects. They will also gain skills in the type of collaboration that produces the best results. Using their basic knowledge about good design, the students will know when it is appropriate that they make small changes to UIs themselves and when it is time to consult a designer.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- Understand what design is about and the crucial aspects of good design
- understand and define the role of the UI/UX designer within a project.
- explain the UX design process and the user-centered mindset.
- advocate the importance of UX design for IT projects.
- describe the basic methods of user research, user testing, and user-centered design.

Contents

1. ROI of UX design
 - 1.1 Efficacy
 - 1.2 Efficiency
 - 1.3 The impact of design on use errors
2. Role and Mindset of UX design in IT projects
 - 2.1 The role of UX design: the UX designer
 - 2.2 The UX mindset: putting the user first
3. The UX design Process
 - 3.1 In a waterfall process environment
 - 3.2 In an agile process environment

Course Description

In this course the students will gain practical experience in user experience design. They will set up and conduct a user testing for a given user interface and develop improvements. The work process and the results will become part of a portfolio.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- evaluate the usability of a user interface.
- conduct user testing.
- understand the practical implications of putting users first.
- make small changes in existing user interfaces and recognize the situations in which a user experience designer should be consulted.

Contents

- User experience design focusses on the needs of users. Within this portfolio project the students put into practice basic techniques which lead to good user-centered design. They learn how to test the user experience and usability of an application by conducting user tests, and they also learn how to develop and test ideas for improvement. Students will finish this course having gained practical experience working within the mindset of putting users first.

Business Intelligence I

Course Code: DLMDSEBA01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

Business Intelligence is about the generation of information based on operational data. It is used to enable goal-oriented management practices as well as the optimization of relevant business activities. This course introduces and discusses techniques, methods, and models for data provisioning and the generation, analysis, and dissemination of information.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the motivations and use cases for, as well as fundamentals of, business intelligence.
- explain relevant types of data.
- know and disambiguate techniques and methods for modeling and dissemination of data.
- expound upon the techniques and methods for the generation and storage of information. select appropriate business intelligence methods for given requirements.

Contents

1. Motivation and Introduction
 - 1.1 Motivation and historical development of the field
 - 1.2 Business intelligence as a framework
2. Data Provisioning
 - 2.1 Operative and dispositive systems
 - 2.2 The data warehouse concept
 - 2.3 Architecture variants
3. Data Warehouse
 - 3.1 The ETL-Process
 - 3.2 DWH and Data-Mart concepts
 - 3.3 ODS and meta-data

4. Modeling Multidimensional Dataspaces
 - 4.1 Data modeling
 - 4.2 OLAP-Cubes
 - 4.3 Physical storage concepts
 - 4.4 Star-Schema and Snowflake-Schema
 - 4.5 Historization
5. Analytical Systems
 - 5.1 Freeform data analysis and OLAP

Course Description

In this course the students will transfer knowledge of business intelligence approaches and methods to the implementation of a real-world business analytical use case. To accomplish this goal, students must look closely at the given task and find an appropriate approach by analyzing, evaluating, and comparing different solution strategies and their constituent parts. The found solution then has to be implemented in order to arrive at a running business analytical system.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- transfer knowledge of business intelligence methodology to real-world use cases.
- analyze the suitability of different approaches with respect to the project task.
- critically reason about relevant design choices.
- make appropriate architectural choices.
- formulate and implement a business intelligence use case.

Contents

- This second course in the Business Analyst specialization aims at the practical implementation of a business intelligence project. Students can choose from a list of project topics or contribute their own ideas.

Course Description

This course aims to provide basic work and problem-solving methods for the successful development of products. It introduces the definition of key design tasks and various alternative product development approaches such as flow-based, lean product development, and design thinking. Finally, the students will become familiar with the use of computer-aided design (CAD) tools and how they integrate into modern product development approaches.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- know the basic definitions and principles of (new) product development.
- understand the key skills in product development.
- discuss, differentiate, and select appropriate product development approaches with respect to a given scenario.
- work with digital product development tools and techniques like CAD, PDM and PLM at a basic level.
- develop own solutions and approaches to academic and practical questions.
- discuss, evaluate, and adapt different digital product development techniques and tools.

Design Thinking

Course Code: DLMBPDDT02

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		5	none

Course Description

In this course, students will receive a hands-on introduction to human-centered design via the Design Thinking method. Beyond conveying the individual basic principles, the procedures in Design Thinking are examined in detail. In order to fully understand Design Thinking in terms of important aspects in practice, selected methods for the individual process steps are presented in theory and application. Students will learn to improve their design process by reflecting on and adapting their activities.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- comprehend, critically reflect on, and adopt the Design Thinking mindset.
- understand the inspiration, ideation, and implementation phases.
- evaluate and identify appropriate methods from the toolbox of human-centered design for given design tasks and challenges.

Contents

- The course covers current topics and trends in Design Thinking, illustrating some methods and techniques as well as case studies. Each participant must create a project report on a chosen project, where he/she describes the application of the Design Thinking approach to a real product development scenario.

Master Thesis

Course Code: MMTHE01

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		27	none

Course Description

The aim and purpose of the Master's thesis is to successfully apply the subject-specific and methodological competencies acquired during the course of study in the form of an academic dissertation with a thematic reference to the major field of study. The content of the Master's thesis can be a practical-empirical or theoretical-scientific problem. Students should prove that they can independently analyse a selected problem with scientific methods, critically evaluate it and work out proposed solutions under the subject-methodological guidance of an academic supervisor. The topic to be chosen by the student from the respective field of study should not only prove the acquired scientific competences, but should also deepen and round off the academic knowledge of the student in order to optimally align his professional abilities and skills with the needs of the future field of activity.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- work on a problem from their major field of study by applying the specialist and methodological skills they have acquired during their studies.
- analyse selected tasks with scientific methods, critically evaluate them and develop appropriate solutions under the guidance of an academic supervisor.
- record and analyse existing (research) literature appropriate to the topic of the Master's thesis.
- prepare a detailed written elaboration in compliance with scientific methods.

Contents

- Within the framework of the Master's thesis, the problem as well as the scientific research goal must be clearly emphasized. The work must reflect the current state of knowledge of the topic to be examined by means of an appropriate literature analysis. The student must prove his ability to use the acquired knowledge theoretically and/or empirically in the form of an independent and problem-solution-oriented application.

Colloquium

Course Code: MMTHE02

Study Level	Language of Instruction	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
MA	English		3	none

Course Description

The colloquium will take place after submission of the Master's thesis. This is done at the invitation of the experts. During the colloquium, the students must prove that they have fully independently produced the content and results of the written work. The content of the colloquium is a presentation of the most important work contents and research results by the student, and the answering of questions by the experts.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- present a problem from their field of study under consideration of academic presentation and communication techniques.
- reflect on the scientific and methodological approach chosen in the Master's thesis.
- actively answer subject-related questions from subject experts (experts of the Master's thesis).

Contents

- The colloquium includes a presentation of the most important results of the Master's thesis, followed by the student answering the reviewers' technical questions.
