Collaborative Work

Course Code: DLBCSCW01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The course supports the students in building up and expanding important interdisciplinary competences for our networked world, and in doing so, students can take advantage of the opportunities for constructive cooperation with others. It presents essential forms and design possibilities of collaborative learning and working, imparts basic knowledge and tools for self-managed, flexible, and creative thinking, learning and acting and familiarizes students with the topics of empathy and emotional intelligence. Students are also encouraged to use the course contents. In this way, they promote their autonomous competence to act and their competence in the interactive application of tools and in interacting in heterogeneous groups.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- design their own learning processes both self-directed and collaborative with analog and digital media.
- initiate face-to-face and virtual cooperation and select suitable methods for shaping collaboration even in an intercultural context and across disciplinary boundaries.
- assess different forms of communication in relation to the goals and requirements of different situations and to reflect on their own communication and argumentation behavior in order to be able to shape conducive collaboration also in an interdisciplinary context.
- recognize social diversity including cultural and professional differences as a value, and to name and apply tools to deal with them constructively.
- explain conflict potentials and the role of emotions in conflicts and to describe the use of systemic methods in the target- and solution-oriented handling of conflicts.
- analyze one's own resources, present methods of self-leadership and self-motivation, and derive appropriate strategies.

Introduction to Academic Work

Course Code: DLBCSIAW01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The application of good scientific practice is one of the basic academic qualifications that should be acquired while studying. This course deals with the distinction between everyday knowledge and science. This requires a deeper understanding of the theory of science, as well as the knowledge of basic research methods and instruments for writing scientific texts. The students therefore gain initial insight into academic research and are introduced to the basic knowledge that will help them in the future to produce scientific papers. In addition, the students receive an overview of the different IU examination forms and insight into their requirements and implementation.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand and apply formal criteria of a scientific work.
- distinguish basic research methods and identify criteria of good scientific practice.
- describe central scientific theoretical basics and research paradigms and their effects on scientific research results.
- use literature databases, literature administration programs, and other library structures properly; avoid plagiarism; and apply citation styles correctly.
- apply the evidence criteria to scientific texts.
- define a research topic and derive a structure for scientific texts.
- compile a list of literature, illustrations, tables, and abbreviations for scientific texts.
- understand and distinguish between the different forms of scientific work at IU.

Course Description

Decisions in complex situations do not follow the rules of logic, but are determined by the features of market participants' behavior. In order to better understand this behavior and to make reliable forecasts based on it, economics is recommended to include discoveries in the field of psychology. After an introduction to business psychology and its influencing factors, students are familiarized with the various theories on motivation, cognition and interaction. This course then looks into business psychology at the macro- and microeconomic level. Students learn about the psychological view on the development of countries and societies as well as the psychology of organizations and groups. In addition, the psychology of work in relation to human resources in general and job satisfaction in particular is examined. Students learn about and understand the importance of change in organizations and the principle of the learning organization. The ability to learn faster than the competition is one of the most important competitive factors. Learning organizations promote joint and individual learning and increase employee motivation towards work.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe central economic assumptions and their influencing factors and critically question them in relation to concrete action and decision making.

Course Description

Industrial and organizational psychology covers a broad spectrum of topics relevant to business and economics. The course offers students the opportunity to actively deal with a practical topic of industrial and organizational psychology such as work motivation, corporate culture or tax psychology, to familiarize themselves with the relevant scientific literature, to apply it in practice and to reflect critically on it.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- become familiar with practical topics in industrial and organizational psychology.
- engage in depth with scientific literature on a topic of their own choice.
- determine a topic and translate it into a research question.
- discuss the challenges for implementation and how these can be solved.

Contents

- The spectrum of research in industrial and organizational psychology ranges from business topics such as workplace design, work motivation, or leadership behavior, to marketing topics such as consumer behavior and advertising, to economic issues such as tax or wage equity. Based on the knowledge they have acquired so far, students have the opportunity in this course to conduct scientific research on a topic related to industrial and organizational psychology, to derive questions that are relevant in practice and to discuss them critically.

Course Description

Social exchange is the basis of our everyday life. Based on this assumption, the basic mechanisms, principles, models and theories that explain these social psychological processes are explored. Especially with the currently increasing importance of conflicts in the social and political environment, these aspects are becoming increasingly relevant. This also affects the context of the constantly advancing digitalization in the work environment, or the change in human forms of living. Students will learn the relevant theories, concepts and principles in the context of social interaction. Methodical approaches to social psychology are taught as well as the knowledge of classical research methods in this context. Students should be able to recognize and make practical use of the diverse effects of human experience and behaviour in the context of others.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain the basic theories, methods, topics and findings of social psychology.
- outline how human behavior interacts with others, and
- assess its consequences, transfer the acquired knowledge to applied problems.
- transfer and apply social psychological findings to everyday social phenomena.

Course Description

The aim of the course is to provide students with the central marketing concepts and terms of operative marketing. They will gain an insight into the different approaches of marketing in the company and become familiar with the management of products and brands as well as with the concept of positioning in the market. The course teaches students the basic tools of marketing using the marketing mix instruments. The four elements of the marketing mix will be discussed in detail, i.e., product, communication, pricing and distribution policy decisions. The relationship and interaction of the individual elements will be illustrated by company cases. The students learn that the success of a product depends on a consistent and consequent implementation of the single elements in operative marketing.

Course Outcomes

Course Description

The aim of the course is to gain a deeper understanding of consumer behavior. Students will learn the basic concepts of consumer behavior research. The course explores different purchase decision models and examines the factors of conditioning, information processing and effects of emotions that significantly influence purchase decisions. Again, real-world examples are used to link theory and practice. The topic of market segmentation will be explored in detail in the context of market research. Here, students become familiar with the most important instruments and methods. Other important topics of marketing are customer satisfaction and customer loyalty, which are closely related. Customer expectations and various measures for customer loyalty will be presented and further analyzed.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the importance of consumer behavior.
- outline the purchase decision process and the factors influencing this process.
- critically evaluate the topic of customer segmentation.
- comprehend customer satisfaction and customer loyalty.

Contents

1. Basic Approaches of Consumer Behavior Research
  - 1.1 Introduction to Consumer Behavior Research
  - 1.2 B2C versus B2B Purchasing

Course Description

People perceive the behavior of other people as well as their own experience and behavior through the subjective lens of everyday life. They have ideas about what makes up a person's personality, how personality develops, and look for explanations for conspicuous behavior and personalities. In doing so, people want to understand what causes others to behave in extreme ways. The course provides access to the construct of personality as well as methodological-theoretical knowledge for its assessment. It sheds light on the factors for the development of personality and addresses the causes of behavioral problems and possibilities for their treatment.

Statistics

Course Code: BSTA01-01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The term "statistics" usually describes two phenomena: (i) the tabular and/or graphical processing of data and (ii) statistical methods used to collect, process and draw conclusions from data. From this it immediately follows that confrontation with statistics is ubiquitous - whether in studies, where statistical methods are applied in related courses, in bachelor theses, or in everyday professional life, where managers are confronted daily with statistical analyses that they are required to understand and interpret. The aim of the course is therefore to teach the most essential elements of statistical procedures. Methodologically, the course is comprised of two steps. Firstly, theoretical basics of individual statistical methods are presented and these are deepened by means of smaller examples and (interactive) illustrations. Secondly, the methods learned are studied on the basis of application cases. In terms of content, the course is divided into three parts. Descriptive statistics deals with different forms of data representation. Probability calculation serves above all as the basis for inferential statistics, in which the attempt is made to draw conclusions about the population from a sample.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- prepare and present data in tabular and graphical format
- analyze and interpret data and their measures of location and dispersion.
- identify how two variables are related to one another and analyze their relationship.
- describe real conditions in probabilistic terms and evaluate them quantitatively.
- name the most important probability distributions and apply them to real-world problems.
- utilize numerical material from a sample as a basis for drawing conclusions about phenomena in the population.
- perform statistical test procedures and evaluate the results.
- perform regressions and interpret the results.
- critically appraise prepared statistics or statistical analyses

Course Description

Organizational change is an essential component of management as the speed and magnitude of organizational change has greatly increased. This course deals with a specific topic from the field of organizational development. In particular, it focuses on the redesign of work, which is becoming increasingly crucial for the success of companies due to megatrends such as digitization and demographic change. The development of a concrete and practically relevant concept for the redesign of work is the focus of the course. Contents are on the one hand the new forms of work itself and on the other hand their implementation into an existing context.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- independently familiarize themselves with the basics of organizational development and change management.
- describe various classical and current models and methods of organizational change and evaluate their practical applicability.
- identify relevant current trends in work design and describe them based on theoretical approaches.
- independently develop a specific research question or task in the field of work design and answer this question with the help of theories and methods of organizational development.
- develop their own recommendations for the solution of the problem, which are theoretically justified as well as realizable in practice.
- critically reflect upon their own approach and solution.

Contents

- This course is positioned in the context of organizational development and change management as it deals with new forms of organization and work ("New Work") as well as with their implementation into an organization. Hence, it is necessary to get an overview of the basics of new ways of working, e.g., agile ways of working, swarm organization, holacracy or the virtualization of work. In addition, students should familiarize themselves with theoretical and practical models and methods of organizational development and change management in order to use them to address a specific, practice-relevant issue. These consist, for example, in various change models (e.g., Lewin, Kotter) or concepts for the acceptance of change. The essential aspect of this course is the linkage of a solid theoretical basis with concrete and current issues of management practice.

Personnel Psychology

Course Code: DLBWPPUB01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

As a result of technological change, organizations and companies need more and more employees with specialized skills and competencies, which are increasingly less available in the required number and quality. In addition, they no longer apply to companies on their own initiative. The recruitment market has now developed from an employer market to an applicant market. In order to nevertheless cover the demand for employees, companies must increasingly take unusual paths. They are also required to ensure a match between position, company and employee. For this purpose, knowledge of personnel psychology is just as indispensable as measures to develop skills and competencies required for corporate success. Students learn the common terms, theoretical approaches and methods for checking the fit between applicant/interested party and workplace as well as various methods for recruiting new employees. Furthermore, the importance and the way of integrating new personnel in the organization will be discussed. Students will be familiarized with the role and function of competency management as a basis for selection and planning of development measures. Instruments for the evaluation of action results as well as legal framework conditions round off the course. After completing the course, students are able to initiate, carry out and supervise the entire cycle of an employee in the company in a qualified and competent manner.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- know and explain the tasks and processes of modern personnel psychology.
- explain the most important theories and methods in the area of the requirement analysis, employee recruiting, selection, development and evaluation.
- explain, reflect, select and apply appropriate instruments of personnel psychology depending on the requirements and setting.
- independently develop suitable formats to answer personnel-psychologically relevant business questions.

Course Description

In a globalized working world, international meetings, cooperation and activities have become a matter of course. In most cases, these encounters between culturally different people are successful and satisfying for both sides. However, it is not uncommon for critical situations to arise in which the behavior of the other person is seen as threatening, inappropriate or useless and does not meet one's own expectations. In this course, students learn to understand and react appropriately to cultural differences and to deal with them in situations relevant to their jobs. The areas of intercultural differences, specifics and cooperation in intercultural teams and organizations are addressed, as well as the orientation of advertising communication in different cultural contexts. After a presentation of the different approaches of psychology as Intercultural Psychology, Cultural Psychology and Cultural Psychology and the culture-specific research, practice-relevant topics such as Intercultural Management, Intercultural Marketing and Intercultural Training will be addressed. Particular attention is paid to the areas of diversity management and value management in the corporate environment.

Course Description

Against the backdrop of the "war of talents", it is particularly important in the economic environment to fill positions correctly and to place employees specifically in the positions that are right for them. Diagnostic knowledge forms the basis for this. It represents a central differentiation of the course compared to other disciplines. Students acquire basic knowledge of the theoretical and methodological principles of psychological diagnostics and learn about its fields of application. Students are able to select, assess, apply and evaluate psychometric test procedures according to the diagnostic question. They also acquire the skills to design individual sub-steps of the diagnostic process themselves and to assess their quality. Selected test procedures in the areas of personality, performance and for measuring specific psychological constructs are presented. In addition, students will gain knowledge on the preparation and interpretation of psychological reports.

Course Description

In the business world, different perspectives of negotiating partners or parties often clash. This often leads to conflicts because the parties involved pursue different goals and evaluate situations differently. Especially against the background of transformation and restructuring processes in companies, conflicts are often pre-programmed due to different interests. To ensure that the different perspectives of the parties involved do not conclude in escalation, knowledge of the nature and structure of conflicts, techniques for dealing with them and basic knowledge of the possibilities of successful communication at a verbal and non-verbal level are essential. This course will equip students with the necessary understanding and present necessary tools to recognize conflicts, to solve them and to lead negotiations. In this context, mediation is highlighted as an increasingly popular method of conflict resolution.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain the central characteristics of conflicts and reflect, analyze and assess their progression.
- analyze conflicts according to the degree of their escalation.

Research Methodology and Data Analysis

Course Code: DLBWPFD01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The content of the course relates to the theory and application of various research methods presented in the context of planning, conducting, evaluating and interpreting psychological questions. First, an overview of fundamental methodological terms and concepts of psychology as an empirical science is provided. In addition, the basics of writing a scientific report, ethical aspects of psychological research and the design of empirical studies will be covered. Subsequently, the most important procedures for data collection, for example observation or psychological tests, will be presented. Furthermore, methods for preparing qualitative and quantitative data in preparation for sound data analysis are explained. Subsequently, the basic statistical skills related to data analysis and evaluation will be deepened. Selected methods from the areas of dimensionality reduction, inferential statistics, mathematical models and evaluation of verbal data (e.g. expert interviews) are covered.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- apply empirical methods as a prerequisite for scientifically based psychological research.
- explain current approaches within the area of industrial and organizational-related psychological research and critically evaluate the background of the applied methods.
- write a report according to the standards of the subject, that is, present their findings accurately and in accordance with formal and methodological guidelines.
- apply fundamental methods for psychological data collection and processing.
- analyze data from psychological surveys using presented evaluation methods and correctly interpret the results of these procedures.
- assess and evaluate the advantages and disadvantages or possibilities of empirical methods on the basis of their methodological knowledge.

Course Code: DLBKPSPKPP01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Not only social problems, but also factual problems are often based on a lack of communication: For example, a machine in the company may suddenly stop working because an employee has turned a switch and does not admit it. Instead of time-consuming technical analyses, goal-oriented communication can motivate employees to find the truth and thus save considerable costs. The goal of this course is to show how practical problems can be solved through systematic communication techniques. Using case studies, students will practice how to approach practical problem situations in a standardized manner and lead them to a solution.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- define problems.
- identify the processes and skills of problem solving.
- understand techniques for solving factual problems.
- systematically solve a practical problem.

Contents

- First, students are sensitized to differentiate between various types of problems such as factual problems, relationship problems, technical problems or complex problems. From a psychological perspective, mental problem-solving processes and strategies as well as processes of decision-making and creativity are considered. The focus is then specifically on models for solving complex problems such as the model for complex problem solving according to Frensch and Funke or the model of action regulation according to Dörner. Finally, after a model for psychological-practical problem solving, a scheme is presented how factual problems can be solved in a standardized way - and through goal-oriented communication. The approach is tested and critically reflected by the students based on case studies.

Leadership 4.0

Course Code: DLBWPLS01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Today, competitiveness depends more than ever on continuous innovation. This puts new demands on the management of companies. The task of successful leaders in innovation and business is no longer to offer direction and solutions, but to create a framework in which others develop innovations. This change, which is currently taking place with full force in companies, requires further developments on classic leadership concepts and its principles. Against the background of digital change and the advance of artificial intelligence, established business models are constantly being put to the test. On the one hand, it is important to work on several projects simultaneously and to adapt flexibly to changing conditions at any time; on the other hand, employees want to be integrated into the work process in a different way. Consideration and flexibility for their personal and family situation play an increasing role. Innovation and business leaders can only meet all these diverse challenges with Leadership by inspiring others to think ahead and act inter-divisionally, in other words, to be visionary. This course tries to convey knowledge, understanding and tools for this challenging field of work.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the classical theories of leadership and new leadership models.
- distinguish between the terms leadership and management.
- reflect on the understanding of successful leadership models against the background of economic changes.
- develop an understanding of the need for alternative forms of organizational directing.
- implement appropriate leadership methods according to a company's level of complexity.
- draw upon a sound theoretical understanding that they can practice in applied research.

Intercultural and Ethical Decision-Making

Course Code: DLBCSIDM01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In this course, students acquire the necessary knowledge to understand intercultural competencies and current developments in the fields of diversity and ethics. Students will understand how to systematically plan and implement learning processes for the development of competences important in these areas. First, important terms are clarified and differentiated from each other, and cultural aspects are explained from different perspectives. In addition, students learn that cultural issues are relevant at different levels, for example, within a state, company, or other group. In this context, students also recognize the connection between ethics and culture with different interdependencies. On the basis of this knowledge, students are then familiarized with the different possibilities and potentials of intercultural and ethical learning and working. Practical cases are used to illustrate the importance of the relationships learned for today's work context in many companies. The students then work on a case study in which the acquired knowledge is systematically applied.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain the most important terms in the areas of interculturality, diversity, and ethics.
- distinguish different explanatory patterns of culture.
- understand culture at different levels.
- plan processes of intercultural learning and working.
- understand the interdependencies of culture and ethics.
- independently work on a case study on intercultural competence.

Consumer Behavior

Course Code: DLBMPS02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Companies need to know their customers and their consumption behavior in order to recognize trends early on and take advantage of opportunities to meet demand. Therefore, it is essential to analyze how customers allocate their resources (time, money, effort) and which factors contribute to the purchasing decision. For this purpose, questions such as What, why, when, how, how often and where does the customer buy? need to be answered. How do the characteristics of products and services influence the purchasing decision process? And what other aspects and factors are important? This course introduces students to essential psychological explanations and models of consumer behavior. It examines the purchasing decision processes of households and procuring organizations, explores the individual, social and digital factors that influence each of these processes, and highlights key concepts in customer loyalty. In addition, this course conveys the special features of marketing services and presents approaches on how companies can effectively meet these specific requirements.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain central terms of consumer psychology as well as being able to distinguish the basic psychological models for explaining consumer behavior and to assess them regarding their significance and applicability.

Course Description

The world of work has changed from its origins in the 21st century and it continues to evolve with the challenges of globalization becoming more apparent every day. In a globalized world, international labor law (the body of rules spanning public and private international law which regulate issues concerning the workplace) is crucial for securing human rights at work and dealing with the negative effects of globalization. As recognized by the international community, labor is not a commodity; it is not an inanimate product. As work is part of everyone's daily life and is vital for an individual's dignity, well-being and development as a human being, international labor standards are there to ensure conditions that allow for work in freedom, safety and dignity. The objective of this course is to provide students with a basic theoretical understanding of the substantive and procedural (legal) rules governing labor and work. Furthermore, the course will cover the work of international labor law institutions and the scope and content of the most important labor law standards and their practical applicability.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- define the term "International Labor Law" and understand its objectives
- understand and reflect on the role of the International Labor Organization (ILO)
- discuss the fundamental International Labor Standards established by ILO Conventions and Recommendations
- identify other sources of International Labor Law
- evaluate the four pillars of the Decent Work Agenda

Course Description

Students will receive a practical introduction to agile project management in this course. In addition to teaching its individual basic principles, the differences between agile project management and plan-driven project management will be examined in detail. In order to understand and experience agile project management, the values, activities, roles, and artefacts of typical agile procedures are presented using Scrum and then practiced on an example project.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain the differences between agile and plan-driven project management.
- explain agile principles.
- work together in an agile manner according to the values defined in Scrum.
- apply the activities defined in Scrum.
- take responsibility for the roles defined in Scrum.
- create and maintain the artefacts defined in Scrum.
- consider the increasing relevance of international, intercultural and virtual collaboration in projects.

Contents

- This course teaches students various skills in the field of agile project management. In contrast to plan-driven project management, the principles of agility used in modern software development are taught. Using the example of Scrum, students will acquire skills in applying an agile approach, and then apply their knowledge of respective roles and activities in a simple project to gain initial practical experience, documenting it in a project report. The content of the projects results from the individual abilities and requirements of the students.

Course Description

Human decision-making behavior is influenced by a variety of conscious and unconscious stimuli: In some situations we rely on our gut feeling, while in others we weigh up arguments against each other. Often we do not decide rationally, as we are under time pressure, react intuitively to stimuli or are unable to process information optimally. Sales psychology makes use of human fallibility by systematically examining decision-making situations and developing theories about the conditions under which people can best be convinced of a product or activity. Here, in particular, the research of Robert Cialdini offers an operational psychological toolkit that will be appropriately illuminated in this course. Conversely, persuasion strategies can also contribute to the common good."Nudging" research intensively deals with unconscious "nudges" to achieve better behavior for society. This course will cover the basics and mechanisms of human decision motivation, as well as practical examples of how to optimally persuade customers, employees, or voters.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the theories of persuasion.
- distinguish between direct and subtle persuasion techniques.
- evaluate the effectiveness of various persuasion techniques.
- apply persuasion techniques in practice.

Course Description

Digital technologies have radically changed markets, the business world and society. The development of digital business models is an important task to be able to secure the future of a company. In this course, the essential basics of digital business models are researched and defined. Based on a (digital) market research method, a digital business model will be developed and challenges in practice will be discussed. The results are then documented by the students.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- identify fundamentals, solution approaches, challenges and forms of digital business models.
- describe digital business models using case studies.
- apply the acquired knowledge by means of (digital) market research methods and independently create and document digital business models.
- analyze digital business models and discuss challenges in practice.

Contents

- In order to develop a digital business model, the project report includes a literature review to define the essential principles and characteristics of a digital business model. Case studies are used to describe forms of digital business models. By means of (digital) market research methods, a practical question/problem is derived, which forms the starting point for the creation of a digital business model. Using suitable methods and tools for the creation of a digital business model, students independently create a business model. Subsequently, the challenges of the business model will be discussed. The application reference (e.g. web store) and/or industry (e.g. retail or health sector) is established in coordination with the course instructor.

Module Contents

The module offers students and lecturers the opportunity to decide together which topics are particularly important at this point in the course. In particular, the ongoing Bachelor's theses are also taken into account. The focal points in terms of content thus depend both on current developments in industrial and organizational psychology and on the course of study and the joint decisions of students and lecturers. Examples of content could be the competence development of employees in the context of mobile working. Megatrends and topics also belong on the agenda (currently, for example, the importance and role of social media for recruiting and employer branding, concepts of cooperation between "silver agers" and "digital natives" in the wake of the shortage of skilled workers, new forms of organizational structure and the effects of the digitalization of business models on employees, etc.). Likewise, global developments such as working environments in transition and the new generation of global candidates can be considered in depth.

Learning Outcomes

Current Topics in Industrial and Organizational Psychology

On successful completion, students will be able to

- identify current national and international trends and developments in industrial and organizational psychology
- stay up-to-date with developments in all the modules previously covered by other modules
- gain research skills and can link new developments with existing knowledge.
- explain the changed working environments, forms of work and organizational structures that have taken place in the context of industrial and organizational psychology.
- identify the interdisciplinary interfaces in industrial and organizational psychology and to work and deal with them.
- understand their importance, role and the extent of their influence.

Course Description

The aim of this course is to convey the latest trends and developments as well as to provide insights into special areas and topics of industrial and organizational psychology. However, not only will topics and approaches be addressed that are entirely new from the perspective of previous teaching, but the module will also offer students the chance to bring themselves up to date about all previously taught topics. It opens the possibility of reflecting once again on what has been learned during the course of study regarding a specific topic against the background of current developments in industrial and organizational psychology and of developing one's own ideas. The focus of the content thus depends on current developments in industrial and organizational psychology as well as on the course of study and the joint decisions of students and lecturers. Examples of content could be the competence development of employees in the context of mobile working. Megatrends and topics also belong on the agenda (currently, for example, the importance and role of social media for recruiting and employer branding and concepts of cooperation between "silver agers" and "digital natives" outcoming of the shortage of skilled workers, etc.). Global developments such as the changing work environment and the new generation of global candidates can also be examined and discussed in depth.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- identify current national and international trends and developments in industrial and organizational psychology

Course Description

The aim is to provide a bird's eye view of special features, opportunities, risks and challenges in both country-specific and cross-national human resources management. To this end, the concept of culture will be discussed and different ways of looking at culture will be debated. On this basis, the course tackles country-specific personnel management with its respective peculiarities. This is followed by a discussion on the transnational personnel management of Multinational Corporations (MNCs). Building on this, the topics of international staff deployment, secondments and the influence of host countries on the management process of MNCs and their foreign subsidiaries will be addressed. A discussion on special features of human resources management in cross-border mergers and acquisitions rounds up this part of the course. In a second thematic approach, the course looks at the requirements for the development of transnational managers in MNCs and discusses measures such as secondment and ongoing training. Finally, the introduced models and concepts will be applied to two example regions in Asia (Japan/Taiwan and China/Vietnam) and the USA.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand and identify the challenges of human resource management in multinational companies.
- take into account cultural particularities in personnel management in different countries and to apply these to transnational mergers and acquisitions.
- name opportunities and risks as well as factors for success in the assignment of expatriates and to identify optimization factors.
- identify elements for developing transnationally qualified managers.
- identify specific risks and opportunities in international personnel deployment with regard to selected regions.

Personnel Selection and Assessment

Course Code: DLBWPWPP01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		10	none

Course Description

The search for qualified employees is becoming increasingly difficult for companies and the demands on these employees are becoming more and more specific due to the diversity and complexity of unresolved issues in the companies for which they work. Against this background, it is essential to select the most suitable candidate for the vacant position from the often few available candidates and to win them for the company. This can be ensured by a structured, diagnosis-supported personnel selection process. The results of this process must be summarized in a structured manner and presented to internal and external clients in candidate-related personnel appraisals in order to make well-founded judgments and secure personnel decisions.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- justify the need for structured personnel selection.
- designate the procedure of a structured personnel selection.
- design a requirements-based personnel selection process.
- perform elements of personnel selection in a self-directed, criteria-driven manner.
- judge the quality and content of personnel selection tools.
- draw up personnel appraisals based on existing individual results.
- make substantiated recommendations based on judgment for personnel decisions to clients.
- critically discuss the components of personnel selection in professional discussions and develop company-specific solutions.

Organizational Development

Course Code: DLBWPOCM01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

To remain competitive, all organizations are subject to constant change. To shape this change positively is a key function of the responsible managers and a sign of successful management. Frequently, reasons such as the discontinuation or the development of new business fields, mergers and relocations are decisive, but also continuous company growth; technological improvements and social changes are reasons for partly far-reaching measures for the further development of organizations. This knowledge is of central importance for implementing changes. This course shows the most important human relation theories that serve as a basis for organizational development. Since the corporate culture is a central component of organizational development, both the analysis and the development of the corporate culture are presented. It also discusses the most important aspects of learning organization.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- explain the basic principles of organizational development.
- name the human relation theories in organizational development.
- explain points of criticism of organizational development.

Course Description

The pace of change in markets, technologies and customer behavior has increased significantly. These developments offer growth opportunities for companies - new business models, merging markets, changed customer behavior. To utilize future potentials, companies need to implement changes effectively and quickly. To do this, it is essential to know the meaning, structure, roles of the people involved, possible bottle neck situations and communication within the framework of change management. A great number of change programs regularly fail in the operational implementation. Therefore, knowledge of the systematic approach to the change process is necessary to successfully manage change in and of the company. People and processes play a central role in this procedure.

Advertising Psychology

Course Code: DLBWPMUW02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Advertising Psychology applies the basic disciplines of general psychology such as perception, learning, emotions, attitudes and motives to advertising, by exploring its special features. The focus is also on unconscious memories and motives. The primary question is which theoretical concepts can provide recommendations for action under the conditions of information overload, loss of trust in institutions and the media, and the rapid development and spread of new media such as v-blogs and virtual reality.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- name the main concepts in advertising psychology and place them in the overall context of industrial and organizational psychology.
- name the most important psychological aspects of the advertising effect and to derive recommendations for actions to optimize them.
- assess which procedures they can use to evaluate the quality of these recommendations for application.
- convey the cognitive processing of their information to their addressees and thereby avoid (or consciously use) cognitive dissonance.
- emotionally charge an offer, a person or a brand.
- critically question investigations and studies with the help of the developed inventory of methods and to conduct own studies.

Digital Methods in Market Research

Course Code: DLBWPWMW01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Since the beginning of the digital age, consumers have also been spending more time in the digital space. Market research is about understanding the needs of consumers in order to be able to offer target groups the right product. For this reason, the methods must be adapted so that customers are appropriately approached. Online surveys now account for the largest share of market research. In addition, there are various technological possibilities, such as facial muscle scans or personal tracking apps, to capture needs and trends ever more precisely. Both quantitative and qualitative market research is thus becoming increasingly digital, even if the principles of gaining insights are based on classic market research methods. This course will highlight the evolution of market research, introduce new quantitative and qualitative methods and tools, and evaluate from a psychological perspective how the future of market research is evolving.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the digital needs of customers.
- apply digital quantitative market research methods.
- know digital qualitative market research methods.
- reflect on the knowledge gained from different methods.
- carry out a digital market research project.

Course Description

The aim of the course is to address the impact of the megatrend "digitalization " on HR management and the world of work. This trend offers HR departments the opportunity to redefine themselves. As a result of digitalization, HR departments are in a position to leave the classic role as "administrators" of personnel and turn to the value creation potential of HR departments. Therefore, the potential of the latest technological developments (such as artificial intelligence) for individual steps of HR management will be considered. A brief, overview-like description of the technologies for HR is fundamental. Although HR professionals do not need to understand these technologies in detail, it is necessary for them to know their core aspects regarding HR business processes. The course also discusses important framework conditions that cannot be ignored for successful digitalization. In addition, it focuses on the emergence of new professions and requirements as a result of digitalization. The dual digitization challenges of HR by contributing to the digital transformation and the transformation of the HR function are addressed as well.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the influences and consequences of the digitalization on the world of work and human resource management as well as the potential of digitization.
- describe digital technologies that have an impact on human resource management.

Project: Personnel Selection and Assessment

Course Code: DLBWPWDHRPG01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

To ensure that the staffing of vacant positions in companies does not become a subjective decision depending on the gut feeling of the interview partner(s), a standardized, structured procedure based on previously defined criteria of assessment in recruitment interviews is necessary. The students first define a requirement profile in order to evaluate it with the help of the Multimodal Interview (MMI) in regard to a potentially vacant position. They develop an interview guideline following the structure of the MMI and conduct an interview with an interview partner from their own network who potentially matches the requirement profile. Subsequently, the interview is evaluated on the basis of the previously defined requirement profile and an expert report is prepared.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- create a requirements profile.
- develop an MMI-based interview guide for a recruitment interview.
- conduct and evaluate such an interview.
- outline the central results of the interview in an expert report.

Contents

- Students define a requirements profile in an industry and for a position of their choice based on qualifications, competencies, soft skills and values, and establish target and can-do criteria. Within this framework, the formal requirements (education/s, work experience), professional requirements (special skills or knowledge), methodological competencies (negotiation skills, strategic thinking, tools, etc.), social competencies (assertiveness, ability to work in a team, etc.) and the required value orientation must be defined. In addition, the students develop an MMI-based interview guideline for a recruitment interview that is to be conducted in approx. 60 minutes with an interview partner from their own network who matches potentially the defined position. This is followed by the "matching" of the answers in regard to the defined requirement profile. The results of this review are presented in the form of a report. The acquired knowledge and competencies of the course can be applied in any industry and to any vacant position in the field of personnel selection

Course Description

As a result of digitalization and the associated new technical possibilities, the work environment is undergoing increasingly rapid change. In corporate practice, the ability to adapt to new circumstances and react quickly to new internal and external changes is referred to as agility, while the transition from conventional structures to agile ones is referred to as agile transformation. In organizations, these affect diverse fields such as communication, leadership style, or even corporate culture. In this course, students deal with one of these fields, concretely describe the process of agile transformation based on a practical example and discuss the associated challenges.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- define agile transformation.
- know fields and examples of agile transformation.
- apply the transformation process to a case study.
- discuss the challenges and limitations of agile transformation.

Digital Consumer Psychology

Course Code: DLBWPDMKP01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In a digitalized world, the customer approach is also shifting more and more to various digital channels. The customer journey of the omni-channel customer already begins with the perception of stimuli. Interesting questions in this context are: which advertising messages are best perceived via which channels, where are customers most effectively picked up, what are the dangers of digital consumption options, what are the generational differences in perception, and which persuasion strategies have a greater effect online compared to offline? Accordingly, the focus of this course is on the psychology of the digital customer approach and retention, the differences between stationary and digital purchasing and payment behavior, and the segmentation of different consumer types.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- track the customer journey of the omni-channel customer.
- understand aspects of stimulus perception and processing.
- compare persuasion strategies online and offline.
- classify different types of customers.

Project: Digital Methods in Market Research

Course Code: DLBWPDMKP02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In the course of digitalization, market research methods have adapted accordingly, so that the needs of customers are no longer only recorded offline, but via online studies, mobile apps or digital scans. In this course, the latest digital market research methods will be researched. On the basis of a selected question related to industrial and organizational psychology, a decision will be made as to which method would be most suitable for investigating this question and which advantages and disadvantages this method could bring with it in comparison to others.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- become familiar with digital market research methods.
- be able to choose and justify an appropriate method for a problem related to industrial and organizational psychology.
- be able to reflect on the advantages and disadvantages of different digital methods.
- understand the process of a market research project.

Contents

- The more consumers spend time in digital spaces, the more their needs, opinions and the trends derived from them need to be captured digitally. In the meantime, in addition to traditional online surveys, there are various digital market research methods such as digital diary apps, digital footprint analysis, facial coding or the analysis of social media content. Which method is most suitable depends on the specific research question. This course offers the opportunity to select a question relevant to industrial and organizational psychology from a list of topics and to find a suitable digital market research for it, as well as to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of the respective digital method.

Course Description

How did Social Media become Social Media Marketing? Social Media has developed from a private communication medium to a commercialized advertising tool. A basic understanding of this development, the social implications of Social Media as well as the networked communication strategies on the Internet is the basis for an active examination of Social Media Marketing. Social Media Marketing is considered both strategically and operationally. The strategic perspective includes the aspect of strategic positioning of Social Media in the company as well as the integration into the overall marketing mix. In addition to fundamental aspects of strategy development, students will deal with the instruments of today's Social Media Marketing and the channels to use them specifically for further marketing measures and strategies in a success-oriented manner. For the active operative examination of Social Media Marketing, Social Media channels such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest, etc. are examined in detail in order to use them specifically for further marketing measures and strategies. Digital advertising measures that are used in Social Media are an integral part of this course. Their usage will also be considered from a legal perspective. Thus, the Social Media Marketing course teaches basic concepts such as the development of a Social Media strategy, including aspects such as content management, editorial planning or target group analysis. It deals with the usage and monitoring of different Social Media channels in a practice-oriented way and it considers the area of operative Social Media Marketing. Hence, this course provides students with a well-founded holistic view of the field of Social Media Marketing and develops the ability to use Social Media for innovation management.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand social implications and networking communication strategies and to apply them to the field of Social Media Marketing.
- integrate Social Media Marketing into the overall Marketing Mix.
- develop a Social Media strategy and proposals for its operational implementation.
- evaluate the different Social Media channels (Facebook, Instagram...)
- use Social Media for Innovation Management and networks.
- fundamentally assess the marketing opportunities of a company in the Social Media sector and make strategic decisions in this regard.
- evaluate developments in Social Media Marketing from a sociological as well as a business perspective.

Course Description

The demands on sales thinking are growing every day. Globalized demand combined with high competition is making it increasingly difficult for companies to compete for customers. At the same time, customers are becoming better informed, while traditional supply markets are saturated and at overcapacity. In order to be successful in such an environment, sales thinking and action are required along with a new type of salesperson. Within the course Applied Sales I (Introduction), the participants are familiarized with the basic concepts of applied sales. You will learn about sales organization, dealing with alternative sales channels, and get to know the dedicated sales planning process. The contents of the module are complemented by the successful acquisition of new customers, whereby particular attention is paid to the organization and implementation of customer visits and the conduct of discussions and negotiations.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the fundamentals of applied sales and place them in the context of the company.
- understand the interaction of the individual facets of applied sales.

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The course Applied Sales II builds on the basics taught in the course "Applied Sales I" and broadens and deepens them. First, the tension between marketing and sales is examined in more detail. Based on this, essential backgrounds and central target figures for successful sales management (e.g., customer satisfaction and loyalty as well as the customer life cycle) are derived and operationalized in order to create the basis for efficient and effective customer relationship management. As the process progresses, attention will also be paid to mental processes and consumer behavior in general. In addition, strategies and paths to successful negotiation are deepened and supplemented by convincing communication techniques. The course concludes with a case study in the course of which the students have the opportunity to apply what they have learned in a practice-oriented manner.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the interaction and the respective areas of responsibility of marketing and sales.
- reflect on and classify the goals and measures within the framework of the applied sales system.
- assess the relevance of customer satisfaction and retention. In addition, the students will be familiar with the central design elements of CRM.
- reflect on and assess alternative approaches to customer loyalty and relationship management and apply them in business practice.

- Basics of requirements engineering
- Enterprise modeling
- Requirement determination techniques
- Techniques of requirements documentation
- Testing and coordination of requirements
- Managing requirements

Learning Outcomes*Software Engineering Principles

On successful completion, students will be able to

- perform simple calculations in the binary system (Boolean algebra).
- describe the structure of computer systems and communication networks.
- distinguish between the phases of a SW life cycle.
- distinguish roles and phases in the software process.
- know different process models of SW development.
- know typical challenges and risks of enterprise SW development.
- know different programming paradigms and their application.

Requirements Engineering

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe models of enterprise modeling relevant to IT support and have experience in modeling.
- understand techniques and methods for determining requirements of IT systems and be able to distinguish them from each other.
- understand techniques for the documentation of requirements on IT systems and have experience in their use.
- describe techniques for testing, coordinating, and managing the requirements of IT systems and be able to distinguish between them.
- independently select suitable techniques and methods of requirements engineering for given project situations.

Software Engineering Principles

Course Code: IGIS01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The aim of the course is to give students an insight into the technical and theoretical basics of software engineering. In addition to the general structure of computer systems, students are taught typical challenges in the development of enterprise information systems. Furthermore, the typical phases and activities in software engineering are presented to address these risks.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- perform simple calculations in the binary system (Boolean algebra).
- describe the structure of computer systems and communication networks.
- distinguish between the phases of a SW life cycle.
- distinguish roles and phases in the software process.
- know different process models of SW development.
- know typical challenges and risks of enterprise SW development.
- know different programming paradigms and their application.

Contents

1. Structure and organization of information systems
  - 1.1 0 and 1 as the basis of all IT systems
  - 1.2 Von Neumann Architecture
  - 1.3 Distributed systems and communication networks
  - 1.4 Enterprise information systems
2. Risks and challenges of enterprise software engineering
  - 2.1 Properties of enterprise software systems
  - 2.2 Software Engineering
  - 2.3 Risks and typical problems
  - 2.4 Root cause analysis
  - 2.5 Challenges in Software Engineering
3. Software life cycle: from planning to replacement
  - 3.1 The software life cycle at a glance

- 3.2 Planning
- 3.3 Development
- 3.4 Operation
- 3.5 Maintenance
- 3.6 Shutdown
4. Requirements engineering and specification
  - 4.1 requirements engineering
  - 4.2 Specification
5. Architecture and implementation
  - 5.1 Architecture
  - 5.2 Implementation
6. Testing, operation and evolution
  - 6.1 Testing
  - 6.2 Operation
  - 6.3 Evolution
7. Roles in Software Engineering
  - 7.1 Idea of the role-based approach
  - 7.2 Typical roles
8. Organization of software projects
  - 8.1 From process paradigm towards software process
  - 8.2 Process Paradigms
9. Software Process Frameworks
  - 9.1 V-model XT
  - 9.2 Rational Unified Process (RUP)
  - 9.3 Scrum

Requirements Engineering

Course Code: DLBCSRE01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The early phases of software development are largely characterized by the fact that functional and technical requirements for the IT system have to be determined. The determination of these requirements must be carried out extremely carefully because all of the following activities in the SW development process are planned and executed on the basis of documented requirements. In this course, procedures, methods, and models are covered, which make it possible to have a structured and methodical determination and documentation of requirements for operational information systems.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe models of enterprise modeling relevant to IT support and have experience in modeling.
- understand techniques and methods for determining requirements of IT systems and be able to distinguish them from each other.
- understand techniques for the documentation of requirements on IT systems and have experience in their use.
- describe techniques for testing, coordinating, and managing the requirements of IT systems and be able to distinguish between them.
- independently select suitable techniques and methods of requirements engineering for given project situations.

Contents

1. Fundamentals and Terms of Requirements Engineering
  - 1.1 Requirements Engineering in the Software Process
  - 1.2 Core Activities in Requirements Engineering
  - 1.3 What is a Requirement?
2. Determination of Requirements
  - 2.1 Determination of the System Context
  - 2.2 Determination of the Sources of Requirements
  - 2.3 Selection of the Appropriate Investigative Techniques
  - 2.4 Determine Requirements Using Techniques

3. Selected Investigative Techniques
  - 3.1 Creativity Techniques
  - 3.2 Interview Techniques

Financial Services Management I

- Financial Markets and Financial Intermediaries
- Financial Intermediation in Germany
- Financial Services
- Debt Financing Through Financial Intermediaries
- Equity Financing Through Financial Intermediaries

Financial Services Management II

- Fundamentals of the Monetary and Asset Situation
- Investment in Money
- Investment in Tangible Assets
- Investment Funds and Certificates
- Insurance Financial Services

Learning Outcomes

Financial Services Management I

On successful completion, students will be able to

- know the role of a financial service provider as a financier as well as how individual markets function in the financing sector.
- understand the basic relationships between the different financial services and their (supervisory) legal frameworks.
- evaluate the potential influence of the financial services sector on the real economy.
- familiarize themselves with the financing services offered both for external financing and for self-financing.
- assess the importance of financial services in the form of debt and equity financing in the short, medium, and long term.

Financial Services Management II

On successful completion, students will be able to

- systematize the different possibilities for the investment of financial surpluses.
- with the help of knowledge gained regarding conflicts involved in making financial investments, apply different aspects of investment decision-making to financial instruments.
- assess the various forms of investment in order of their safety.
- analyze the various forms of investment in terms of risk and return.
- understand that investment funds, certificates, and derivatives are modern products of financial service providers, which bring high returns and sometimes high risk.

Course Description

The course explains the origin and constitution of the financial market. As a result of the imperfection of the financial market, the necessity of financial intermediaries is theoretically derived, which leads to the thesis of disintermediation. Since the German financial market is determined by regulations and supervision, the legal framework is discussed. The financial services of banks and other specialized financial intermediaries are presented. The main forms of debt financing through financial intermediaries are presented as well as financing with equity capital.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- know the role of a financial service provider as a financier as well as how individual markets function in the financing sector.
- understand the basic relationships between the different financial services and their (supervisory) legal frameworks.

Course Description

In this course, the different possibilities of investing financial surpluses are systematized. The conflicting relationship between the risks, returns, and liquidity of a financial investment are presented, and the different aspects of decision-making for investment in one of the financial instruments are shown. The various forms of investment (monetary values, tangible assets) are presented in the order of their security. The functions that insurance companies perform as financial service providers complete the picture. The different forms of life insurance and their role in old-age provision are presented.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- systematize the different possibilities for the investment of financial surpluses.
- with the help of knowledge gained regarding conflicts involved in making financial investments, apply different aspects of investment decision-making to financial instruments.
- assess the various forms of investment in order of their safety.
- analyze the various forms of investment in terms of risk and return.
- understand that investment funds, certificates, and derivatives are modern products of financial service providers, which bring high returns and sometimes high risk.

Course Description

The qualification objectives correspond to levels A1, A2, B1 and B2 according to the criteria of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). Using everyday subject areas, chosen areas of specialization, and using basic and advanced grammatical structures, the use of German as a foreign language is taught and practiced according to a CEFR placement test. Upon successful completion, students will receive a certificate corresponding to their chosen level.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- meet the qualification objectives according to the chosen level (A1, A2, B1 or B2) according to the criteria of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).
- use the foreign language German according to a CEFR placement test on the basis of everyday topics, selected areas of specialization and by adapting basic and advanced grammatical structures.

Contents

- Depending on the CEFR placement, students will be proficient
  - to understand and use familiar, everyday expressions and very simple phrases aimed at satisfying concrete needs. They can introduce themselves and others and ask other people questions about themselves - e.g. where they live, what kind of people they know or what kind of things they have - and they can give answers to questions of this kind. They can communicate in a simple way if the person they are talking to speaks slowly and clearly and is willing to help. (Level A1)
  - to understand sentences and frequently used expressions related to areas of immediate importance (e.g. personal and family information, shopping, work, local area). You can communicate in simple, routine situations involving a simple and direct exchange of information about familiar things. You can describe by simple means your own background and education, immediate environment and things related to immediate needs. (Level A2)
  - to understand the main points when clear standard language is used and when it's about familiar things from work, school, leisure, etc. You can handle most situations encountered while traveling in the language area. You can express yourself simply and coherently on familiar topics and personal areas of interest. You can talk about experiences and events, describe dreams, hopes and goals, and give brief reasons or explanations for plans and opinions. (Level B1)

- to understand the main content of complex texts on concrete and abstract topics; and to understand specialist discussions in their own area of specialization. You can communicate so spontaneously and fluently that a normal conversation with native speakers is quite possible without major effort on either side. You can express yourself clearly and in detail on a wide range of topics, explain a point of view on a topical issue and state the advantages and disadvantages of various options. (Level B2)
- Grammar:
  - Level A1 - present and past tenses, sentence structure, prepositions, etc.
  - Level A2 - among other things tenses of the past, differences in the past tenses, imperative, subordinate clauses, pronouns (dative, accusative)
  - Level B1 - including introduction of past perfect, conjunctions, introduction of passive voice, adverbs, adjectives (difference), future tense
  - Level B2 - among others verb constructions, conditional clauses, indirect speech

Course Description

The qualification objectives correspond to levels A1, A2, B1 and B2 according to the criteria of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). Using everyday subject areas, chosen areas of specialization, and using basic and advanced grammatical structures, the use of French as a foreign language is taught and practiced according to a CEFR placement test. Upon successful completion, students will receive a certificate corresponding to their chosen level.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- meet the qualification objectives according to the chosen level (A1, A2, B1 or B2) according to the criteria of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).
- use the foreign language French according to a CEFR placement test on the basis of everyday topics, selected areas of specialization and by adapting basic and advanced grammatical structures.

Contents

- Depending on the CEFR placement, students will be proficient
  - to understand and use familiar, everyday expressions and very simple phrases aimed at satisfying concrete needs. They can introduce themselves and others and ask other people questions about themselves - e.g. where they live, what kind of people they know or what kind of things they have - and they can give answers to questions of this kind. They can communicate in a simple way if the person they are talking to speaks slowly and clearly and is willing to help. (Level A1)
  - to understand sentences and frequently used expressions related to areas of immediate importance (e.g. personal and family information, shopping, work, local area). You can communicate in simple, routine situations involving a simple and direct exchange of information about familiar things. You can describe by simple means your own background and education, immediate environment and things related to immediate needs. (Level A2)
  - to understand the main points when clear standard language is used and when it's about familiar things from work, school, leisure, etc. You can handle most situations encountered while traveling in the language area. You can express yourself simply and coherently on familiar topics and personal areas of interest. You can talk about experiences and events, describe dreams, hopes and goals, and give brief reasons or explanations for plans and opinions. (Level B1)

- to understand the main content of complex texts on concrete and abstract topics; and to understand specialist discussions in their own area of specialization. You can communicate so spontaneously and fluently that a normal conversation with native speakers is quite possible without major effort on either side. You can express yourself clearly and in detail on a wide range of topics, explain a point of view on a topical issue and state the advantages and disadvantages of various options. (Level B2)
- Grammar:
  - Level A1 - present and past tenses, sentence structure, prepositions, etc.
  - Level A2 - among other things tenses of the past, differences in the past tenses, imperative, subordinate clauses, pronouns (dative, accusative)
  - Level B1 - including introduction of past perfect, conjunctions, introduction of passive voice, adverbs, adjectives (difference), future tense
  - Level B2 - among others verb constructions, conditional clauses, indirect speech

Corporate Communication

Course Code: DLBPRWCCPR01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In this course students are encouraged to fully grasp all internal and external communication activities of a company. Corporate communication is part of corporate identity and serves to communicate the corporate image. Here, for example, the focus can be on "sustainability" or "being hip". With the rise of saturated markets and global competition, the corporate image is becoming increasingly important. Corporate image and communication are increasingly becoming competitive advantages because it is becoming more and more difficult for companies to achieve and maintain product-related competitive advantages. This course combines targeted theoretical and strategic principles with practical knowledge of the content, methods, instruments and structures of corporate communication.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- comprehend the essence of corporate identity, corporate design and corporate image, differentiate them from and relate them to one another.
- understand and explain corporate communication as a sub-discipline of corporate communications.
- distinguish corporate communication from public relations.

Contents

1. Introduction to Corporate Communication
  - 1.1 Principles and Definitions
  - 1.2 Internal vs. External Corporate Communications
  - 1.3 Image Building and Brand Development
  - 1.4 Best Practice Examples in an International Context
2. Corporate Communication and PR
  - 2.1 Sub-Disciplines of Corporate Communications
  - 2.2 Differentiation from Public Relations
  - 2.3 Historical Development and Milestones
3. Corporate Philosophy as a Means of Corporate Management
  - 3.1 Corporate Soul

- 3.2 Corporate Language

Project: Corporate Communication

Course Code: DLBPRWCCPR02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	DLBPRWCCPR01_E

Course Description

The focus of this course is an own project in which the students can experience and apply the relevant methods and instruments of corporate communication. Best practice examples are used to provide practice-relevant input and are analyzed by the students. Any questions and problems that may arise during the transfer of knowledge from theory to practice can be directly discussed and solved within the project. In addition, the students create another work sample for their application folder. In their individual project, the students experience all practice-relevant phases with the aim of being able to use this content in the future and to realize and manage their own projects. In order to be able to act professionally in challenging situations, solution-oriented skills are taught in each phase of the project.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand the practical implementation of concepts with a focus on corporate identity and corporate design.
- understand and apply corporate identity and image building in practice.
- analyze concepts and the realization of corporate communication strategies and apply the learnings.

Contents

- The focus of this course is on holistic corporate communication. Best practice examples show how successful companies maintain and promote their corporate communications both internally and externally. The students learn about the influence of these strategies on employee motivation and personnel development on the one hand and on a successful external image on the other hand. This course is practice-oriented and repeatedly shows interfaces to, for example, marketing and other related disciplines, which underlines its interdisciplinary claim and character. On the basis of the multifaceted input, the students are supported in applying or implementing what they have learned on the basis of an example project. In doing so, they learn how important it is to think holistically and to combine all facets of corporate communication. Ultimately, the students gain direct insights into the tasks and problems in practice through this project.

Module Contents*Applied Employee Development

- Definition of Employee Development
- Goals of ED
- Methods of ED
- Cycles of ED
- Possibilities of Success Control
- Important Stakeholders in ED
- Limits/Demarcation of Employee Development
- Challenges of ED in the Future

Seminar: Systematic Approaches to Employee Development

The seminar deals with selected topics of systemic approaches to employee development, whereby the topics are considered from the perspective of the employee as well as from the perspective of the personnel developer. A current list of topics can be found in the Learning Management System.

Learning Outcomes

Applied Employee Development

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe and delimit the tasks and objectives of employee development in companies.
- assess the importance of the timely involvement of all relevant stakeholders; and to describe the procedure.
- outline the main methods of staff development and evaluate their applications.
- reflect on the classical employee development cycle and describe the different phases.
- anticipate future challenges for human resource development as well as develop ideas for dealing with these challenges.
- present approaches of effectiveness control, education controlling respectively alternative evaluation formats of ED success and to make practical suggestions for their application.

Seminar: Systematic Approaches to Employee Development

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe the special features of systemic employee development and distinguish them from classical employee development.
- use the terminology associated with systemic employee development as well as explain their roots.
- explain the need for a holistic approach.
- present approaches to solutions and points of attack for systemic employee development within the framework of a seminar paper.
- clarify the necessary interaction of all actors concerned and to develop approaches/ideas in order to activate a balanced interaction.

Course Description

Employee development does not serve a self-purpose. As a support function in companies, employee development pursues various goals - regardless of the size of the company, entrepreneurial, strategic and economic missions are always in the foreground. This course provides an overview of the tasks and objectives of employee development, defines the core processes and distinguishes employee development from other important corporate functions, which are also often located in the area of human resources. Various methods are presented which can be applied within the framework of the classic employee development cycle. In addition to the application of and the decision for the right method, the timely and consistent involvement of relevant stakeholders must not be forgotten under any circumstances. Turning those affected into participants also applies in employee development - the methodical and content-related surprise effect does not lead to the desired results. For this reason, the course also takes a look at "customer", "interest group" and general target group orientation. Assessing the quality of personnel development measures is not trivial and can only be evaluated either over a longer period of time or "in a roundabout way". In this course different possible evaluation approaches are presented as well as "education controlling" and forms of "effectiveness control" are presented. In conclusion the course glances into the crystal ball and deals with the challenges that personnel development will face in the future.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe and delimit the tasks and objectives of employee development in companies.
- assess the importance of the timely involvement of all relevant stakeholders; and to describe the procedure.

Seminar: Systematic Approaches to Employee Development

Course Code: DLBPGWPE02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The employee, but also all other actors are seen as active components in human resource development. Companies invest a lot of money in employee development measures, but the investment does not always lead to the desired result and pays off in such a way that it helps to achieve the strategic corporate goal. The reasons for this may be different and may partly lie in the participant, the implementer or in the wrong selection of the measure. Often it is due to the fact that the entire organizational unit of employee development or at least its methods and the developed or purchased measures are not sufficiently integrated into the overall company. The goal of systemic employee development is that employees see, understand, feel, are perceived and regarded as a co-creating member of the company. In the systemic sense, employee development is not a central unit that controls "externally", but rather an integrated component of the company:rules (law of super summativity).This course fills these theoretical words with life.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- describe the special features of systemic employee development and distinguish them from classical employee development.
- use the terminology associated with systemic employee development as well as explain their roots.
- explain the need for a holistic approach.
- present approaches to solutions and points of attack for systemic employee development within the framework of a seminar paper.
- clarify the necessary interaction of all actors concerned and to develop approaches/ideas in order to activate a balanced interaction.

Contents

- The content of this course focuses on the comparison of classic employee development and systemic employee development. It is not a matter of a categorical "either-or", but of considering where and how the approaches may even complement each other. In a first step, classic employee development is examined in depth and its "starting points" in the company are examined more closely. Where does ED start? Who talks about it with whom? Who is the client, who is the contractor, who is the user/customer? What is the goal of classic ED?

The next step is to get to know and understand systemic ED and to understand its roots in Gestalt/system theory. What are the underlying laws of systemic employee development? Who is involved here? Are there uninvolved units? Examples are used to operationalize the various toolboxes of systemic HRD. Within the framework of the seminar work, the students can work on selected topics of systemic employee development from the perspective of the employee as well as from the perspective of the personnel developer.

Circular Economy

Course Code: DLBEPWITN01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In contrast to the currently predominant principle of linear economy in industrial production and economy, the approach of the circular economy represents a regenerative system. The objective of the Circular Economy is to lower the use of resources and to reduce waste production, emissions and energy waste by slowing down, reducing and closing energy and material cycles. The course provides an overview of the origins, the framework conditions and the requirements of a Circular Economy. In addition, the students receive an insight into the economic transformation processes and adjustments in terms of production, technologies, supply chain, forms of organization and business models.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand which origins and reasons make a reshape and restructure of the current linearly organized economy towards a circular economy necessary.
- describe the most important drivers of the circular economy.
- explain important concepts and deductions of the Circular Economy and their impact on organizational forms, business models, production and technologies as well as economic activity, and to evaluate their advantages and disadvantages.
- understand and learn to shape the transformation process from a currently linearly organized economy to a circular economy.

Course Description

Sustainable technologies differ significantly from conventional technologies, which often cause ecological and social problems due to their dependence on conventional primary energy sources (fossil or nuclear) and/or their emissions. In the course, students get an overview of the areas and applications of sustainable technologies and gain insight into methods of evaluating and comparing them based on objective criteria.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- remember the definition and concepts of the term sustainability,
- understand different systems and their interactions as well as the social significance of sustainable technologies,
- remember the areas of use and possible applications of sustainable technologies,
- analyze, evaluate and compare sustainable technologies based on objective criteria.

Contents

1. Sustainable technologies: Introduction and context
  - 1.1 Characteristics of sustainable technologies
  - 1.2 Systems and interdependencies
  - 1.3 Social relevance
  - 1.4 Economic aspects of sustainable technologies
  - 1.5 Technical challenges of sustainable technologies
2. Energy Technologies
  - 2.1 Energy forms
  - 2.2 Conventional primary energy sources
  - 2.3 Regenerative primary energy sources
  - 2.4 Energy storage technology
  - 2.5 Energy conversion technologies and conversion efficiency
  - 2.6 Energy supply grids

Augmented, Mixed and Virtual Reality

Course Code: DLBMIAMVR01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

Augmented, mixed and virtual reality (AR, MR and VR) technologies are becoming increasingly important in a wide range of application areas. In this context, novel hardware devices and forms of interaction are used. In addition to the technical foundations, this course covers aspects of human perception and approaches for developing AR/VR applications. To give the students a knowledge of the field, the terms augmented, mixed, and virtual reality will be defined and differentiated and examples of their use will be demonstrated. In order to simulate the existence of a virtual world or virtual objects to users, aspects of human perception have to be used. Based on the fundamentals of human information processing, the course highlights the phenomena, problems, and solutions that have to be considered in AR and VR applications. AR and VR systems can be implemented in different ways. This course addresses different output forms, tracking methods and interaction possibilities. In addition, other techniques that are specifically relevant in the AR field will be represented. Software development in the AR and VR field may require the application of special processes. This course teaches selected approaches that are helpful in designing, prototyping, and testing AR and VR applications. The course concludes with a view at the future applications and the research potential of augmented, mixed, and virtual reality.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- name the characteristics and differences of augmented, mixed, and virtual reality techniques.
- describe the importance of sensual perception in AR and VR.
- explain the basic technical features of AR and VR systems.
- explain the different interaction possibilities in AR and VR applications.
- perform selected development processes for AR and VR applications.

X-Reality Project

Course Code: DLBMIAMVR02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The students create an application from the field of augmented or virtual reality by themselves and document its conception and implementation as well as collected experiences. The development of an AR/VR application may include special steps that are not known from classic software applications. In this context, AR- or VR-typical elements of the application should be explicitly highlighted and challenges and problems should be addressed.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- implement a small AR/VR application by themselves.
- experiment with the concept of AR/VR applications.
- discuss challenges and issues in AR/VR software development.
- document the concept and implementation of independently developed AR/VR applications and accumulated experience in a project report.

Contents

- The students work on a project from the field of augmented or virtual reality. They design and implement an AR/VR application based on a concrete task. The development of the application as well as collected experiences are documented in a project report. The project report first presents the project goal as well as the topic and context of the application. Then the requirements, the conception and the implementation of the application are described. During the documentation, AR- or VR-typical elements will be explicitly highlighted. The report concludes by highlighting the challenges and issues that arose during development.

Artificial Intelligence

Course Code: DLBDSEAIS01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

The quest for artificial intelligence (AI) has captured humanity's interest for many decades and has been an active research area since the 1960s. This course will give a detailed overview of the historical developments, successes, and set-backs in AI, as well as modern approaches in the development of artificial intelligence. This course gives an introduction to reinforcement learning, a process similar to how humans and animals experience the world: exploring the environment and inferring the best course of action. This course also covers the principles of natural language processing and computer vision, both of which are key ingredients for an artificial intelligence to be able to interact with its environment.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- chart the historical developments in artificial intelligence.
- understand the approach of contemporary AI systems.
- comprehend the concepts behind reinforcement learning.
- analyze natural language using basic NLP techniques.
- scrutinize images and their contents.

Contents

1. History of AI
  - 1.1 Historical Developments
  - 1.2 AI Winter
  - 1.3 Expert Systems
  - 1.4 Notable Advances
2. Modern AI Systems
  - 2.1 Narrow versus General AI
  - 2.2 Application Areas
3. Reinforcement Learning
  - 3.1 What is Reinforcement Learning?
  - 3.2 Markov Chains and Value Function

Project: AI Excellence with Creative Prompting Techniques

Course Code: DLBPKIEKPT01_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	none

Course Description

In this course, students explore the fascinating world of prompting in generative AI applications. They engage in hands-on exercises to create new AI-generated content including text, images, and videos. Through these exercises, students learn how to effectively use, analyze, and evaluate these systems within their respective fields of study.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- comprehend and apply basic prompting techniques in generative AI applications.
- analyze and evaluate the effectiveness of the basic prompts.
- apply ethical considerations to the design and use of AI for basic prompting techniques.
- design, implement, and refine effective prompts to real-world scenarios through hands-on exercises.
- showcase creative and innovative thinking in the application of prompting techniques to solve complex problems in their field of studies.

Contents

- In this course, students work on a basic practical implementation of a generative AI use case by choosing from a selection provided in the complementary guideline. The course provides practical examples as learning materials and exercises with basic prompting techniques for open-source text, image, and video generation use cases. The exercises are designed to inspire and guide students in completing their own generative AI use case work, which includes a use case description, chosen prompting techniques, outcomes, and critical evaluations from both technical and ethical perspectives.

Personal Elevator Pitch

Through the application of self-reflection, self-awareness based on relevant career success parameters students should develop career goals, career stages, and their career strategy. Taking into account their current professional and/or study situation, the central elements of a short-, and medium-term career planning are worked out by the students for their individual case. At the end of the course, students will be able to present their personal elevator pitch and communicate it in a proper way that is appropriate for the target group or audience. In this way, they will reflect on their current professional situation. The personal elevator pitch, being at hear of personal branding, supports the conveyance of this vision during personal networking activities.

Learning Outcomes

Personal Career Plan

On successful completion, students will be able to

- understand, apply, and reflect presented career theory and models with regard to their personal situation to arrive at a concept or picture of a desired career.
- understand and critically reflect the concept of career and career planning.
- understand the relevance of a strategically oriented career planning.
- understand the importance of and conduct a personal assessment to identify one's personality, values, motivation, strengths, competencies, skills, and interests.
- understand the necessity of building and maintaining their own personal brand.
- understand differing job search processes across national/international contexts, and to create context-sensitive job applications accordingly.
- understand the principles of global careers and how to effectively act in international environments.

Personal Elevator Pitch

On successful completion, students will be able to

- identify their career goals, career stages, and the personal status quo with regard to their achievement.
- reflect their current situation and define where they want to aim.
- develop a career strategy by creating personal career goals and a coherent action plan.
- understand and apply the process of building a personal brand.
- define their identity, skills, profession, reasons to believe and necessary investments.
- identify their personal strengths and their core driver.
- understand the power of effective communication, networking, and storytelling.
- understand the principles and apply the process of designing a strong personal elevator pitch.
- critically reflect and adapt their personal elevator pitch to the specificities of the context, audience, target group, and way of delivery.

Course Description

In today's complex and ever-changing environment, the forms of careers vary depending on the context, understanding of values, and market dynamics. The 'classic career ladder' that one is climbing being the only predominant form of career is long outdated, and individuals are being confronted with a great number of opportunities regarding industry or job choice and working arrangements. Considering the great variety of options especially for well-educated individuals, has become more important than ever to make informed decisions. This course is designed to support students maneuvering themselves through these complexities of their personal career plan, whereby self-awareness, self-reflection, and goal-setting are important elements of this process. Guided by central elements of career theory, career models, and research outcomes, students will be given tools and reflection exercises to arrive at a solid, directly applicable strategy to further steer their professional progress and career steps.

Personal Elevator Pitch

Course Code: DLBKAENT02_E

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		5	DLBKAENT01_E

Course Description

The forms of careers vary depending on the context or personal preferences in today's ever-changing, demanding, and complex environment. Changes in the environment, as for example technology, sustainability, and the rise of artificial intelligence, push individuals to take career transitions into their own hands. Personal endeavors to develop one's career through the acquisition of, for instance, new projects, jobs, or employers, require the right strategies to be successful. Contacts through targeted networking and the development of one's own brand play a special role here. Evenly so for individuals starting their careers after having accomplished their education, effective networking is key to career entry and development in these turbulent times. In addition, personal branding is a concept that not only has gained relevance in research but is also widely used in career counseling. Developing and conveying a personal brand is central to this course. Using the personal branding approach during networking activities, individuals can actively contribute to their career success.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- identify their career goals, career stages, and the personal status quo with regard to their achievement.
- reflect their current situation and define where they want to aim.
- develop a career strategy by creating personal career goals and a coherent action plan.
- understand and apply the process of building a personal brand.
- define their identity, skills, profession, reasons to believe and necessary investments.
- identify their personal strengths and their core driver.
- understand the power of effective communication, networking, and storytelling.
- understand the principles and apply the process of designing a strong personal elevator pitch.
- critically reflect and adapt their personal elevator pitch to the specificities of the context, audience, target group, and way of delivery.

Contents

- The core element of this course is a personal elevator pitch with the use of a personal branding canvas. The creation of a personal brand is not only relevant for self-employed freelancers or entrepreneurs but is as well helpful for individuals who strive for their own further development on the career ladder within their organization or for those who are seeking employment. Having understood the characteristics of and reasoning behind personal branding and the underlying process, students will be able to apply this process to their own person and situation.

- Self-awareness being the main 'ingredient' for an effective personal brand, students will be encouraged to go on an intensive self-reflection journey to deepen their understanding of their identity, skills, profession, and reasons to believe for a personal brand, and subsequently, for a personal elevator pitch.
- Being at the heart of and the essence of personal branding, the elevator pitch enables individuals to impactfully present themselves in a nutshell to important individuals and potential employers. Having understood the principles and key success factors characterizing an elevator pitch, students will be able to develop their own one. They will learn to consider aspects like timing, benefit, clear positioning, target audience through an oral form of delivery. In addition, the role of communication, networking and storytelling principles will be highlighted.
- Knowledge of the core elements and success factors of the personal elevator pitch within the framework of the individual career development.

Bachelor Thesis

Course Code: DLBBT01

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		9	none

Course Description

The aim and purpose of the bachelor's thesis is to successfully apply the subject-specific and methodological competencies acquired during the course of study in the form of an academic dissertation with a thematic reference to the major field of study. The content of the bachelor's thesis can be a practical-empirical or theoretical-scientific problem. Students should prove that they can independently analyze a selected problem with scientific methods, critically evaluate it, and work out proposed solutions under the subject-methodological guidance of an academic supervisor. The topic chosen by the student from their respective field of study should meet the acquired scientific competences, deepening their academic knowledge and skills in order to meet the future needs of the field.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- work on a problem from their major field of study by applying the specialist and methodological skills they have acquired during their studies.
- independently analyze selected tasks with scientific methods, critically evaluate them, and develop appropriate solutions under the guidance of an academic supervisor.
- record and analyze existing (research) literature appropriate to the topic of their bachelor's thesis.
- prepare a detailed written elaboration in compliance with scientific methods.

Contents

- The bachelor's thesis must be written on a topic that relates to the content of the respective major field of study. In the context of the bachelor's thesis, the problem, as well as the scientific research goal, must be clearly emphasized. The work must reflect the current state of knowledge of the topic to be examined by means of an appropriate literature analysis. The student must prove their ability to use the acquired knowledge theoretically and/or empirically in the form of an independent and problem-solution-oriented application.

Colloquium

Course Code: DLBBT02

Study Level	Language of Instruction and Examination	Contact Hours	CP	Admission Requirements
BA	English		1	none

Course Description

The colloquium will take place after the submission of the bachelor's thesis. This is done at the invitation of the experts. During the colloquium, students must prove that they have independently produced the content and results of the written work. The content of the colloquium is a presentation of the most important work contents and research results by the student as well as the answering of questions by experts.

Course Outcomes

On successful completion, students will be able to

- present a problem from their field of study using academic presentation and communication techniques.
- reflect on the scientific and methodological approach chosen in their bachelor's thesis.
- demonstrate that they can actively answer subject-related questions from the subject experts (reviewers of the bachelor's thesis).

Contents

- The colloquium includes a presentation of the most important results of the bachelor's thesis, followed by the student answering the reviewers' technical questions.

Literature

Compulsory Reading

Further Reading

- Subject specific literature chosen by the student
