

4.1. The Embedded Computer

Introduction

The embedded computer is a computer system that is designed to perform a specific task. It is often used in applications where the computer is not the primary focus of the user's attention. The embedded computer is typically used in applications where the computer is not the primary focus of the user's attention. The embedded computer is typically used in applications where the computer is not the primary focus of the user's attention.

Block Diagram

Block Diagram

