Overview

AllyCare is our comprehensive support and maintenance program for NetAlly's Network Tools, including AirMagnet® software. This program ensures your products are always up to date and provides you with a premium level of technical support to minimize business downtime and ensure the highest return on your investment.

Key Features

AllyCare Advantage vs Standard Warranty

While our warranty covers your product from manufacturing defects in hardware for one year, and software for 90 days, there is great value in purchasing AllyCare, available in one- or three-year coverage periods.

Insure Your Investment - Repair/Replacement Guaranteed

If your NetAlly instrument fails or is damaged, we will repair or replace the unit free of charge, including shipping. If you use this service just once, you will have more than recouped your AllyCare investment.

Software Upgrades and Updates

Your NetAlly Handheld Network Testers or AirMagnet software will never be out of date. You will receive access to all available software upgrades, giving you the latest functionality, improving technical efficiency and troubleshooting. Software upgrades may be released multiple times throughout the year and are only available to AllyCare Members.

Accessory Replacement

Some accessory parts are essential to your NetAlly Handheld Network Tester, or AirMagnet product. The normal warranty on accessories is 90 days, but parts and accessories that ship with your unit, including the rechargeable internal battery (if applicable), will be replaced free of charge with AllyCare Support, once qualified as defective by our technical assistance center. With an average value of $100-500, AllyCare saves you a significant expense if your battery or other accessory should fail.

Priority Technical Support

AllyCare includes priority access to our world-class Technical Assistance Center (TAC). Our highly-trained technical experts are stationed around the globe, ready to answer your complex troubleshooting questions.
