September 21-4 October, 2023

Introduction to the Program:

Institute of Social Sciences, New Delhi is organizing a Two weeks Capacity Building Program (CBP) on “Emerging Transdisciplinary Research in Social Sciences and G-20 Challenges” from September 21-October 4, 2023. The fundamental objective of capacity enhancement of researchers in social sciences is to address and investigate new and emerging areas in the discipline especially the challenges linked to current concerns of Sendai Declaration and SDG goals which amalgamate under the target framework of G-20, calling for ‘Recover Together, Recover Stronger’, collectively and collaboratively through mutual handholding and not in conflict. The 12 days programme would focus on the following objectives;

1. Understanding multi-dimensional concerns of contemporary research so that silos of thoughts, professional boundaries and knowledge pyramids such as arts-science, administration-academia, rural and urban are revisited and bridged.
2. Essentials of collaborative research and of preparing joint reports and research papers
3. Developing tools to start and manage transdisciplinary centres of learning/research and for starting new courses.
4. Data collection tools and indicators needed to proceed in research
5. Designing course curriculum for contemporary research.
