A detailed architectural rendering of a modern building's interior lobby. The space is characterized by large, light-colored marble walls and a polished concrete floor. A prominent feature is a large glass-walled food service area in the center, where a woman in a white tank top and light blue jeans stands talking to a man in a checkered shirt. The food area has a dark countertop and a wooden upper section. In the background, other people are visible at tables and a bar. To the left, a blurred figure of a person walking adds a sense of movement. The ceiling features recessed linear lighting. On the right, a glass-enclosed staircase and a glass elevator are visible. The overall atmosphere is bright, clean, and contemporary.

BLENDING HISTORY AND ART

AREP has created a workplace that offers exciting contrasts from the moment you enter — Pop Art blended with history, generating a unique language that is fresh and provocative. Highlighting Philadelphia's historic and current luminaries, bespoke Pop Art is infused throughout 1600 Market Street.

The specially commissioned bright yellow 'Willy' the fox holding a red balloon sits above the reception desk in the lobby to greet visitors and is a nod to the building's site where the old Fox Theater once stood. The 'Portrait Invaders' and 'Philadelphia Notables' pieces featured on the ground floor and continued within the amenity center, artfully blend old and new Philly—Benjamin Franklin unknowingly in a graffiti-like selfie; Will Smith painted with intense colors sits atop a collage of old Philadelphia Enquirer newspaper covers.
