WHEELER BLOCK

POTTER HIGHLANDS

Wheeler Block dominates the southeast corner of West 29th Avenue and Vallejo Street. It recalls Charles A. Wheeler, who after unsuccessfully looking for gold during the Pikes Peak gold rush, served as a sergeant in the Civil War.

Early on Wheeler plunged into North Side real estate. In 1890 he pulled building permits to erect the Wheeler Block as an apartment house/meeting hall at a cost of $30,000. Wheeler Block is a well preserved representation of nineteenth century commercial construction.
