- A great companion for all kids' doctor's appointments
- For nervous kids and their worried parents

KATJA REIDER • HENRIKE WILSON

No one needs to be afraid of the doctor!

Dr. Owl can help with a runny nose or a grazed knee or check when the next vaccination is due. Today she's checking Piggy from top to toe to see how much he's grown and all the things he can do. He's so big already! And so good at jumping. Piggy can even balance on one leg almost by himself. He can hear and see perfectly fine and stand on both trotters.

The doctor checks his chest and tummy. Everything's in tip-top order – and so is Piggy. He chatters, plays and paints a house. Then the doctor's appointment is over. At the end, he gets a little present and a kiss from Mum.

A funny and encouraging way to get in the mood for a visit to the paediatrician.

*Wait, is Piggy feeling sickly?
Thankfully not! Don't be silly!*

ANU STOHNER • HENRIKE WILSON

Little Santa Claus is always the first to wrap the presents. But every year Chief Santa says, he can't join him for the sledge ride because he's too small. One day however, Little Santa discovered that the animals are really upset that they never get presents. From then on, Little Santa becomes the Santa Claus of the animals!

Little Santa Claus Goes to Town

The animals in the forest are lucky: Little Santa comes to them. But he doesn't come to the animals in town. That's why they write and complain. But what can Little Santa do? The town is so far away and all the fast reindeer sledges are reserved for the big Santas. Finally wise owl saves the day with an idea: »We animals of the forest will help«, she says.

So the owl flies ahead, the bear pulls the sledge and the dormouse knows the way: she has relatives in town. That's how they do it, and are met with mighty cheers.

Kathrin Schärer

was born in 1969 and now lives in Basel. She has illustrated numerous children's books, for which she has been nominated for the Hans Christian Andersen Prize, the Astrid Lindgren Memorial Award and the German Youth Literature Prize, among others. For Hanser, she illustrated Franz Hohler's popular animal poems Es war einmal ein Igel (2011) and Am liebsten aß der Hamster Hugo Spaghetti mit Tomatensugo (2018), as well as the picture book Das kleine Wildschwein und die Krähen (2023). Her best-selling picture book Da sein – Was fühlst du? was published with a postcard set featuring 18 designs from her book.

- Close focus on the everyday life of small children
- Playful presentation with humorous animal pictures

KATHRIN SCHÄRER

Children are explorers, quick learners and whizz through (almost) everything in their first years. After her bestseller Da sein – Was fühlst du? (How do you feel?) Kathrin Schärer now presents 30 everyday activities, using vivid animal illustrations, that even the smallest children can do if given the inspiration and confidence. Getting up in the morning, getting dressed and having breakfast? No problem! Building a sandcastle, doing crafts or browsing a book? Why not? Cutting cookies, going to the bathroom and climbing a tree trunk? I want to do it on my own! Children are rightly proud of what they can do on their own. And soon riding a scooter or throwing a ball will be a breeze. Great fun to discover together and learn playfully – for small and slightly bigger whizz kids.

- A highly popular topic: lorries, cranes, tracked trucks and other big machines
 - Great fun for young builders and junior engineers

Children like digging and building things.

Large construction machines are particularly fascinating. In illustrated texts, Ole Könnecke explains what excavators, rollers and tracked trucks do, as well as tippers and cranes, loaders and lorries. His stories are tongue-in-cheek and there's always an animal along for the ride. Wolf only needs a shovel for a small hole. But to dig out a heavy treasure chest, he takes a bucket excavator. The fastest way for Cow to transport the concert piano over the fence and onto her meadow is with a telescopic crane. And when Sheep picks up a stone block weighing several tons along with her weekend shopping, she goes in search of a wheel loader. – An original picture book that combines information and humour in a very entertaining way.

No more boredom: Lotti, Tom and Theo –
A trio of siblings to fall in love with

Charlotte Inden, born in 1979, lives with her family in Karlsruhe and works as a journalist at a daily paper. Among others Hanser published Bei mir zu Hause wohnt ein Tiger (2019) and Mein Tiger zieht um – und wir kommen mit (2020). Her children's novel Dear Santa – Als der Weihnachtsmann plötzlich zurückschrieb was published in 2022.

Susanne Göhlich, born in 1972, is one of the most popular children's book illustrators in Germany. For Hanser she has illustrated Silke Schlichtmann's Pernilla books and contributed to Lesen ist doof (by Nils Freytag and Silke Schlichtmann). susannegoehlich.com

CHARLOTTE INDEN • SUSANNE GÖHLICH

Great fun and a tribute to children's imaginations! For Theo, Tom and Lotti, every day is an adventure. In their imaginations, they are desperados, explorers, knights and superheroes. A cat becomes a dangerous tiger and the neighbour's garden, a jungle. Which, as it so happens, belongs to an elderly lady – the fearless Frederike, who is not afraid of bees or chickens. At the end of the lane is Carlos's pub. He's always giving them lollipops and is always in a good mood. But one day a man in shiny black shoes shows up – with Frederike's house in his sights. The three siblings can't let him get away with this, of course. In other words: There's adventure everywhere. You just have to look carefully. And always carry a water pistol! Just in case.

- Let go of stress and perfectionism during the holiday season!
- Perfect for getting into the Christmas spirit
- For the whole family

HENRIKE WILSON

In 24 chapters, Santa Claus and his animal friends have their ups and downs.

Especially when it comes to Christmas preparations. No wrapping paper? Forgotten the words to a Christmas carol? The Christmas tree is crooked and the advent wreath shabby? These three friends have a motto.

Let go of stress and perfectionism during the holiday season! There's a solution for everything! Santa Claus, fox and squirrel go on lots of little adventures in the run-up to Christmas. Whether they're making holiday season cards, tree decorations or playing in the snow, their capers are charmingly told with wonderful illustrations by Henrike Wilson. The ideal book for the whole family – because everyone needs a break from the hustle and bustle of Christmas!

- How a writer, an eccentric pug and a botanist make friends
- A story full of clever observations and sparkling humour

ELKE HEIDENREICH • MICHAEL SOWA

Elke Heidenreich found fame with her books about Nero, the fearless cat. This new story is about her beloved teddy bears, her pug Gustav and some less treasured neighbours.

Especially Dr. Moormann, who's always finding something to complain about. She grumbles about her neighbour's sprawling garden, when her visitors laugh too loudly or when her dog barks. Since Gustav peed on her flowers, there's always some argument brewing. But then one day, one of her teddy bears ends up on Mrs. Dr. Moormann's lap while watching TV – and Gustav the pug keeps watch next to her when she's sick. She shows a softer side.

And it almost looks as if these two very different neighbours might become friends ...

»A literary narrator that draws in the reader from the very first line.« Elizabeth Menzel, Süddeutsche Zeitung

Julia Rabinowich, born in St. Petersburg in 1970, has lived in Vienna since 1977, where she also studied. She is a writer and columnist and has worked as an interpreter for many years. Her first book for teens, Dazwischen: Ich, was awarded many prizes. In 2019 her teen book Hinter Glas was published, followed by Dazwischen: Wir in 2022. The idea for Der Geruch von Ruß und Rosen was conceived during her countless conversations with war survivors and their families.

• Return to a war-torn home country – the very first novel on this highly relevant topic

• Profound, powerful, authentic

JULYA RABINOWICH

The book of the moment, stirringly told by Julia Rabinowich.

The war is over and Madina risks travelling back to her home country in an agonising search for her father. She also wants to good-bye to the life she had to leave so quickly. The wounds of war are still fresh and Madina sees great suffering and comes up against mistrust.

When she eventually finds her father, she manages to take him back to her new home.

At the same time, she realises it's time she stopped being responsible for her family and follow her own dreams. This is a story about how war plunges so many families into chaos and uncertainty, and how a young woman surpasses herself to discover who she is.

»Tomorrow everything will be good again, I keep telling myself.«

So, reading is stupid because it takes so long?

Not if your snail sets the pace. Reading is stupid because it's all made up? Not when the Sams jumps off the page and taps you on your shoulder. Reading is boring because you have to do it by yourself? Not if a magical creature reads with you. Reading is tiring? Then take the rabbit's lead – he reads in his rocking chair! Silke Schlichtmann and Nils Freytag have collected a whole lot of prejudices and, with the help of 20 of the best German illustrators, proven them wrong. The result is a highly charming picture book for people of all ages – which will make you want to read all the more!

How do an Alpine horn, a bassoon and a sitar sound?

Which instrument has only one note? And with which can you go from beginner to virtuoso in just 30 seconds? This amusing and instructive picture book introduces 50 instruments as the accordion and vibraphone to the balalaika and ukulele. Along the way, there are many interesting facts, practical tips and quirks to be learned about instruments and playing music. For example, that the violin has four strings and the piano 88 keys. Where the name saxophone comes from or that the tuba is made of 10 metres of brass. Illustrated beavers, ducks, goats and other animals set the tune. All 50 instruments can be heard via QR code in specially composed pieces.

The new children's book by YA literature prizewinner Dita Zipfel: a firework of wit and imagination! Jonny Ant isn't like other ants. However much he tries, the others are always better: they can carry more, smell and see better than him, and always fit through the tunnels in their anthill. When Jonny's suspiciously large body starts to tremble and he is diagnosed with the contagious Broommps, he decides he's had enough. Together with his friend Butz – the only ant in the world who doesn't like to work – he runs away. Together they get caught up in an adventure in which Jonny's weaknesses increasingly turn out to be strengths. Because thanks to Broommps, some things are suddenly possible that he would never have dreamt of ...

TOBIAS KLOSTERMANN

You can plan how to get rich! How to go from your first 100 euros to your first million!

Being good at saving pocket money isn't witchcraft if you know what to do and what not. How rich would Jesus be today if his parents had invested a cent of seed capital when he was born? What's the difference between a bull market and a market for bullshit? And why should everyone respect the first money they earn like Scrooge McDuck and his Lucky Dime No. 1? This book is a practical toolbox for anyone who wants to explore the world beyond their current account and savings book. It is also a guide to values: because only those who have their emotional and moral wealth in check, as well as their finances, can be successful.

The world of money – enjoyable, original and highly topical

No sooner have we come into the world than we are pigeonholed: it's a boy! Or: it's a girl! Why do we do this? And how do all the people who can't identify with the gender mentioned on their birth certificate feel about it? How should you react if your best female friend's crush isn't male but female? This book sheds light on what LGBTIQA+ means, and who the people behind these letters are. It explores social, health-related and legal questions, gives people affected by these issues a voice, and introduces us to organisations that promote gender diversity. An activist, empowering book, respectful, topical, and artistically illustrated and designed.
