

Ideas (17 P4 1.2)

Reasons

- Hectic work schedule
 - Cannot spend valuable time with parents but still want them to maintain the quality of their living standard / afford the things they like
- Not knowing what their parents like / parents' preference
 - giving money to them so that they can spend on the things they want
- Reciprocating for their parents' sacrifice / love
- Traditional Virtues
 - An expression of filial piety and respect to parents

Should this continue?

- No, as far as this tradition is concerned, it has lost its meaning
 - People only give money because they learn from their parents or friends about how other people are doing the same
- Yes, the living cost in Hong Kong is increasing due to inflation, and the economy is going downward
 - Giving money to parents/elderly can alleviate their financial burden and improve their living standard.

Other ways people can show respect

- Treating their parents for dim sum during festivals
- Making hand-made crafts for them
- Visiting them frequently and spend valuable time with them
 - No texting, no smartphones; just focus on having a meaningful conversation with them
