

Lesson 3. THE GOLDEN HILL

Now, switch to the part of the land where the Unicorn seats. The land needs to be filled in with radiant series of stitches. Prepare the "land" with marking out the direction of the stitches.

A new strand - is a new land.
Thread the needle with a new thread and start spreading the stitches.

Colour the up-side of the hill with short-and-long satin stitching.

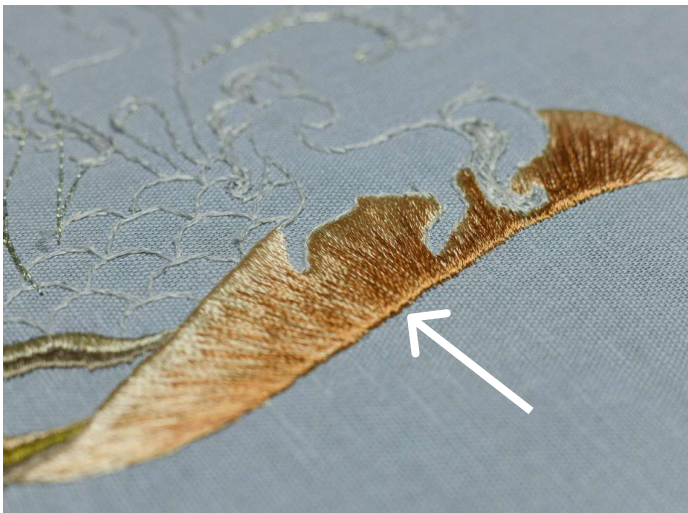

Vary the length of stitches, this will give the hill more "volumized" look.

Using a new shade of embroidery thread, stitch the central part of the hill.
Spread the stitches the same way as you have recently done (radiantly).
Vary a short and a long stitch.

Completing the centre, switch to the final - the bottom part of the "hill". Use a new shade of rayon embroidery thread and, spreading the stitches the same way, cover the spare part of the land. Mind the border, it should be fine and smooth.

The land is done! Let's go to the next one!
