

The Brinton Museum

The Historic Brinton Ranch House and Gardens on the National Register of Historic Places

An American Treasure in the Heart of the West!

The Brinton is the only museum in the U.S. that maintains a historic and expanding Western and American Indian art collection on a beautifully preserved gentleman's working ranch at the foot of a mountain range. The art, as well as the 620-acre Quarter Circle A Ranch, are an American treasure.

- Conveniently located between Yellowstone and the Black Hills
- 15 minutes from Sheridan and Interstate 90
- Easy bus access and ample parking
- Group rates with guide & driver complimentary
- Docent-guided tours of Historic House and Galleries
- Catered meals or special menu available for groups
- Historic Brinton Ranch House, Gardens & Outbuildings
- Exquisite American Indian Art
- Iconic, historic & contemporary Western Art
- Old-time leather workshop
- Museum Store & Brinton Bistro

Notes:

Contact Barbara Schuster
Development & Marketing
bschuster@thebrintonmuseum.org

The state-of-the art Forrest E. Mars, Jr. Building opened in June 2015

WESTERN ART

At the heart of the museum is Bradford Brinton’s (1882-1936) original collection of 19th and early 20th century Western art, featuring works by Remington and Russell, as well as his personal friends Borein, Gollings and Kleiber. With the addition of historically significant pieces by Moran, Bodmer, Wimar, Wittredge and John Mix Stanley, as well as contemporary pieces, it tells the distinctive story of the American West.

AMERICAN INDIAN ART

Some of the finest art and artifacts from the extensive Gallatin and Brinton collections are featured in the exhibition To Honor the Plains Nations. On display for over 45 years at the Art Institute of Chicago, the Gallatin family’s collection has returned home to Big Horn where it originally was compiled on their ranch adjacent to the Quarter Circle A.

THE BRINTON RANCH HOUSE, GARDENS AND MORE

The Brinton Ranch House is at the center of the 620-acre Quarter Circle A Ranch which was purchased by Bradford Brinton in 1923 as a gentleman’s working ranch. It houses his extensive collections of art, American Indian artifacts, books and rare documents, and furnishings, which can be experienced via a guided tour in their original setting. The outbuildings, such as Little Goose Creek Lodge, Saddle and Carriage Barns, and the gardens can be explored at your own pace. The manicured grounds provide a relaxed setting and are popular for weddings and events.

THE BRINTON BISTRO AND MUSEUM STORE

With a stunning view of the Bighorn Mountains, the Brinton Bistro is a wonderful place to enjoy a quick bite or a relaxing meal or refreshment. This farm-to-table experience features fresh ingredients from the Brinton garden, local farms and ranches and fresh seafood from Hawaii.

Located in the lower level of the museum, the Museum Store features unique regional artwork, jewelry, books, collectibles, and children’s gifts. For many guests, the store is the highlight of their visit!