Why do big cats, bears and other survivors of the exotic animal trade need your help?

Legislation regarding big cat ownership varies from state to state, and as of May 2019 there are still no federal laws prohibiting ownership of these dangerous animals. As laws are enacted to protect survivors of the exotic animal trade, more and more animals will need to be rehomed to legitimate sanctuaries like Turpentine Creek Wildlife Refuge.

As a nonprofit organization, your admission, program and lodging fees, and retail purchases and donations allow us to be a strong voice for animals who would otherwise have none. It is because of your support that we are able to provide lifetime care to so many animals in need.

A Nonprofit Sanctuary for Survivors of the Exotic Animal Trade

Federal Tax/EIN: 71-0721742

In the Ozark Mountains on 459 acres and home to a variety of exotic and native animals, Turpentine Creek Wildlife Refuge (TCWR) is a “top ten” Northwest Arkansas attraction and one of the most popular in Eureka Springs. As an ethical animal tourism destination, we provide compassionate care and lifetime sanctuary to survivors of the exotic animal trade and we offer a fun, educational experience to all animal lovers.

At the Refuge you’ll learn about our mission and efforts, and get the opportunity to hear exotic and native animal vocalizations, view natural predatory behaviors, and watch our animals as they enjoy their large, grassy habitats.

Each of our residents has a unique story to tell. So plan your visit, share your experience and become a voice for animals who would otherwise have none.
