

Financial Accountability

As part of an international partnership with offices in 100 countries, World Vision New Zealand pursues the highest standards of stewardship and accountability.

World Vision New Zealand has been supporting children and families in developing countries since 1974. Our commitment to accountability and transparency is reflected in full internal and external audits; well-designed, monitored and evaluated programmes; and regular reporting on the progress made in the communities where we work.

Our governance

World Vision New Zealand is governed by a voluntary board of New Zealand trustees whose main role is to provide strategic leadership and monitor the performance of the organisation.

Our international body, World Vision International, is governed by a board of global representatives who are responsible for the partnership's overall health, oversight of management and operations, and alignment of World Vision partners around the world.

Our accountability

Internationally, World Vision is actively involved in a number of initiatives and international codes of conduct. These set the benchmarks for governance, management, partnership and accountability for World Vision offices around the world, such as the International Non-Governmental Organisations Accountability Charter.

World Vision New Zealand is a Trust Board incorporated under the Charitable Trust Act 1957 and is also registered under the Charities Act 2005. Our registration number is CC25984. World Vision New Zealand is also a member of the Council for International Development (CID) and is a signatory to the CID Code of Conduct (www.cid.org.nz), as well as being a trusted partner of the New Zealand Government and United Nations World Food Programme.

World Vision New Zealand is independently audited every year by PricewaterhouseCoopers New Zealand. The auditor's full financial report is available on request.

Globally, World Vision applies best-practice accountability aimed at reducing the risk of corruption and fraud. All World Vision offices are regularly peer-reviewed for adherence to governance and management standards.
