Lock-down Procedure:

Lock-down – Keeps staff and students from moving from an area of lower risk to an area of higher risk. The lockdown is an effective way of managing many emergency situations and it should be the default response to most emergency and threat situations as it is an effective way of:

1. Managing a large population rapidly, making planning further responses easier.
2. Minimising target profile (in case of armed intruder).
3. Managing information, if done effectively as it controls the unsolicited communication that can be sent via social media.

It is vitally important that the door is locked as soon as the lock-down signal has been heard, if event attendees are working just outside the door, they should be hurried into the room first. Attendees who have left the room for other reasons and are further away will need to seek cover in an alternative location.

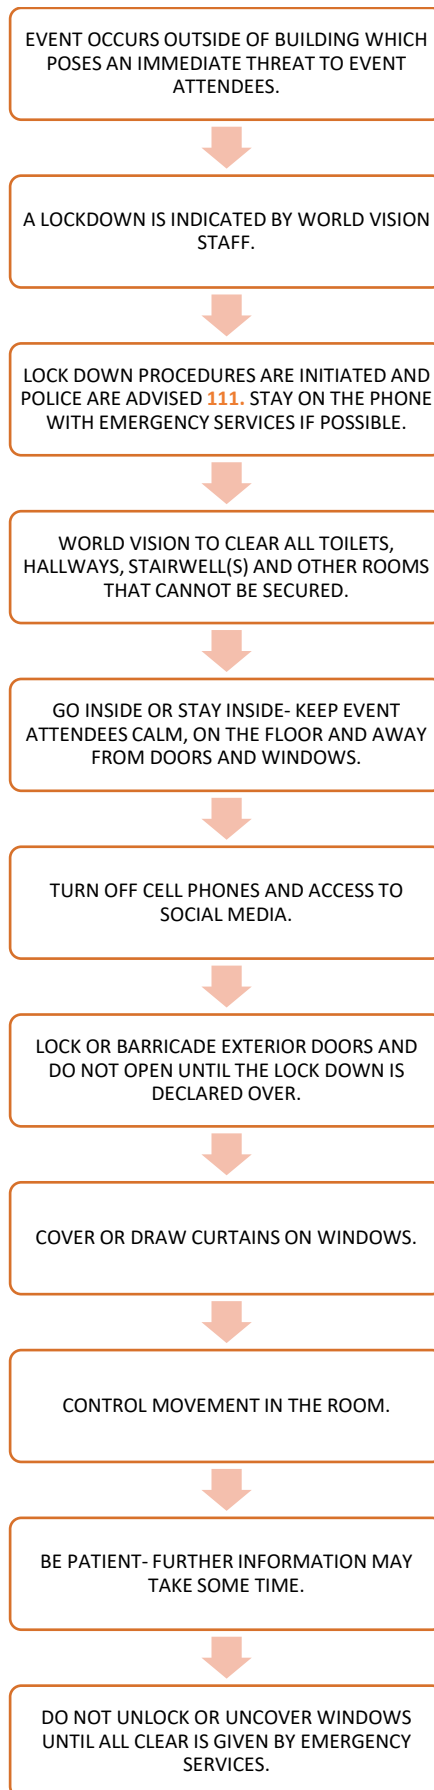

DO NOT GO LOOKING FOR ATTENDEES WHO ARE NOT IN THE ROOM.

IGNORE ANY EVACUATION ALARMS.

Once the door has been locked it must not be opened again until:

- All clear has been signalled.
- There is imminent danger if you remain in the room (fire).
- Emergency services advise you to leave the room.

If you find yourself outside of the main event space, find an appropriate space for yourself and others around you to be able to be safe and contained. Consider where the threat is and limit movement from where you are.
