WORLD VISION AND THE 40 HOUR CHALLENGE IN NEW ZEALAND

Since it started, in 1975, the New Zealand World Vision 40 Hour Challenge has raised more than $80 million and brought hope to thousands of children living in poverty in more than 40 countries. Each year approximately 50,000 young Kiwis participate in the World Vision 40 Hour Challenge. More than 3 million New Zealanders have participated since it began.

The youth focused campaign engages young people with global humanitarian issues and gives them an outlet to make a difference by:

- Providing a simple mechanism for learning about global issues, having fun with friends while fundraising
- Giving them tools to develop leadership skills, event management and organisational skills
- Earning Levels 1 and 2 NCEA credits by participating in and organising the World Vision 40 Hour Challenge

HOW THE WORLD VISION 40 HOUR CHALLENGE WORKS

Participants commit to doing a challenge for a length of time (often 40 hours) and ask people to sponsor them. Participants can choose what challenge they want to do – popular challenges include 40 hours, 40 kms; 40 hours, no taps; 40 hours, 40 litres; 40 hours, no tech; or create your own! Younger students can choose to do a challenge for a shorter period of time if they prefer. They often participate as part of a school or youth group team who support them with understanding the global issue they are fundraising for, building a sense of community and fundraising.
