

Sheku,

With more than thirty years of history and over 100 Member Tribes across Indian Country, NAFOA has become a preeminent player in advancing the tribal economic agenda. On behalf of Member Tribes, the organization has an active and respected voice that continually calls the Administration, Congress, and the private sector's attention to key issues effecting economic advancement opportunities. Our success would not be possible without the productive collaboration and support from membership.

In our mission to grow tribal economies by strengthening tribal finance, NAFOA provides a wide variety of educational programs and resources designed to increase knowledge in tax, finance, and economic progress, improve internal policies, and build a network with which you can share experiences and expertise. In addition, NAFOA equips tribes with essential research and awareness, including our groundbreaking publications and professional development programs, to access progress and promote growth. As tribal leaders and tribal government professionals, we believe in return on investment. With your support, in the form of membership, we can continue our progress of building a stronger future for Indian Country.

Yawvko,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Cristina Danforth'.

Cristina Danforth
NAFOA Board President

