recalibrate accepted price-vs-performance expectations in the high end. The HINT 6 consistently reproduced all manner of music with remarkable confidence, consistency, and grace. Pairing the HINT 6 to my beloved Maggie 1.7i panels proved downright revelatory."

The Parasound HINT 6 Halo Integrated Amplifier is another product that is easy to recommend. It is chock full of features, offers a built in and very good sounding DAC and a wonderful MM and MC phono stage coupled with 160 Watts of pure musical brawn. Sometimes power is a good thing.

The Parasound is much more akin to an AV Receiver - and not simply because it has bass management. It can be used with more affordable sources as the core of a system that - for more than a few owners I suspect - will be taking them out of multichannel. Without significantly altering what the original could do, the HINT 6 simply does everything a little bit better. This is a very fine product indeed and one that earns our enthusiastic Recommendation.

Parasound's feature-packed high-end amplifier is a knockout

The Parasound Halo HINT 6 might be exactly the sort of practical high-end component music lovers need, when they don't want to deal with the complexities of separate components. For them, the HINT 6 would be the ideal centerpiece for their music system.
