

art asks you to reconsider your relationship to the world art challenges your habitual modes of perception art asks you to engage, not to consume art is a complex network of relations art sees uncertainty as productive art is sometimes wishful thinking art can elicit fierce compassion art makes the abstract tangible art is a thought from the future art is a vital part of society art trusts your experience art is an agent of change art is a reality producer art can host the other art is world-making art is generous

art can heal

art empowers