

Built in 1595 by Robert Smythson, one of England's foremost Elizabethan architects, Doddington has never been sold or cleared out and has been our much-loved family home since 2006.

A visit to Doddington offers a unique insight into family life through the ages and the challenges of looking after such an estate in the 21st century.

We have a wide range of shops, cafés and events here which we hope you will enjoy in the knowledge that all the proceeds go towards the upkeep and conservation of the Hall & Gardens.

We are also working hard to be sustainable, with a range of initiatives across the estate.

We hope you enjoy your visit to Doddington.
