

A watercolor illustration of a wooden staircase in an attic. The stairs are made of light-colored wood and lead upwards. The walls are also made of wood, with some panels and a window. A skylight is visible in the upper right corner, letting in light. The overall style is soft and painterly.

The Shadow on the Stairs

Ann Halam