

Contents

|     |                                                                                             |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 7   | Acknowledgments                                                                      |
|     | Plates 1.1–1.18Kunsthal, Legnani/Cappelletti 2017                                       |
| 37  | Introduction                                                                         |
|     | Plates 2.1–2.8Rotterdam's Dijkzigt Area                                                 |
| 61  | 1—Doom and GloomOMA in the 1980s                                          |
|     | Plates 3.1–3.6OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Museumpark Rotterdam                                    |
| 97  | 2—The Better Half of ArchitectureOMA's Museumpark                         |
|     | Plates 4.1–4.12OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Kunsthal I and NAI, 1988                               |
| 145 | 3—An Overdue CrisisKunsthal I, the NAI, and Deconstructivist Architecture |
|     | Plates 5.1–5.8OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Kunsthal II, November/December 1988                     |
| 197 | 4—Squaring the CircleKunsthal II: The Scheme of December 1988             |
|     | Plates 6.1–6.14OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Kunsthal, January/February 1989                        |
| 245 | 5—Modernism ObsoleteA New Approach for a New Europe                       |
|     | Plates 7.1–7.14OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Kunsthal, April 19, 1990                               |
| 293 | 6—FragmentationsThe Development of the Design 1989–92                     |
|     | Plates 8.1–8.18OMA/Rem Koolhaas, Kunsthal, the construction site and completed building |
| 377 | 7—Excess Is Always a Bearer of ConsciousnessThe Building of October 1992  |
|     | Plates 9.1–9.14Kunsthal, new drawings                                                   |
| 417 | Appendix                                                                             |