

Table of Contents

p. 7	Introduction
p. 13	“Step up! Step Up! Who Dares to Try Again!” From Childhood to the Red Rabbit
p. 33	Paris Friends Meret Oppenheim’s Connections to the Surrealists
p. 53	“Paradise Is Under the Ground” A Crisis and a Fresh Start
p. 73	Thomas Hirschhorn Meret Oppenheim-Kiosk
p. 89	“Quick, Quick, the Most Beautiful Vowel is Voiding” Text-Image Relationships in the Works of Meret Oppenheim
p. 109	“C’est pour la nouvelle magie” References to Nature in the Works of Meret Oppenheim
p. 129	“Fur, or Some Dark and Shaggy Fabric” Meret Oppenheim’s Forays into the Applied Arts
p. 149	“The Idea Appears Already Clothed in Its Own Form” Meret Oppenheim’s Use of Materials
p. 169	“I Have to Write Down the Black Words of the Swans” Birds and Bird Flight in Images and Texts by Meret Oppenheim
p. 189	Enigmas A Few More Threads to Follow
p. 209	Meret Oppenheim (1913–1985)
p. 221	Recommended Reading Index of Names Imprint, Image Credits, Acknowledgements