

Maximilien Gavin, Versailles, its waters, their quantity, their quality from Louis XIII to this day (1892). The drawing provides an overview of the system of parks and hydraulic works carried out by order of King Louis XIV, for the beautification of the palace, the parks, and sanitation of the city of Versailles. Image: Courtesy of Centre de recherche du château de Versailles

Table of Contents
Parks Foreword—Janet Parks	6
Preface	10
The Social Dimension of Parks	12
Ancient Practices and Formal Conventions	20
Three Centuries of Park Systems
1713—Bridgeman and Vanbrugh's Stowe	34
1778—Goethe and August's Park an der Ilm	40
1789—Repton's Red Books	46
1806—Nash and Fordyce's Regent Street	56
1812—Telford's Bonar Bridge	64
1829—Loudon's London	70
1847—Paxton's Birkenhead	76
1850—Chicago's Park System	84
1853—Davis's Llewellyn Park	94
1860—Vaux and Olmsted's New York	102
1872—The Olmsteds and National Parks	108
1898—Howard's "Garden Cities"	124
1900—Los Angeles's Bicycle Highway	130
1903—Jensen and Wright's Chicago	136
1905—Crawford and Forestier's Parks Movement	154
1907—The Kesslers' Cincinnati	164
1909—Geddes and the School of Civic Design	174
1911—Nolen's Madison	180
1916—The National Conference on City Planning	194
1936—Bodmer and Brillard's Lac Léman	210
1947—Wright's Taliesin Valley	224
1962—Lloyd Wright's Los Angeles	242
The Future of Park Systems	254
Speak For Yourself	272
Biography	278
Acknowledgements	279
Index	280