

A person's legs are shown from the knees down, wearing black roller skates with white wheels. The skates are heavily splattered with various colors of paint, including blue, yellow, and red. The person is standing on a light-colored tiled floor that is covered with a large, crumpled blue tarp or plastic sheeting, which is also splattered with paint. In the background, there are white concrete steps or a low wall, also showing signs of paint splatters. The overall scene suggests a creative or artistic activity involving roller skating and painting.

I am a figure skater, who developed her practice as a child competing in Argentina. In 2020 I began to develop a more performatic style where I included painting in my dances, in order to create paintings with it.

I Won 2 MIAMI DDA grants to be able to perform live (one grant was for a space and the other one to performance live with a Olympia Theater Project)

Street Stages

Olympia
Arts
MIAMI

Thursdays and Saturdays, from 4:00p to 8:00p, Singer/Songwriters, Jazz/Pop Ensembles, Jugglers, Electronica, Comedians, Opera and Performance Artists popped up in front of Storefront Art Installations at three locations on the “100 Block” of East Flagler Street. Short sets create a perfect fit between drinks and bites in Downtown restaurants and bars.

Flagler Street Stages:

- 159 E. Flagler Street
- 132 E. Flagler Street

Street Stages is part of the #Flagler District “#SafeStreets/Alt-B” initiative, activating vacant storefronts with Art, and is funded by Miami DDA, Miami-Dade County, Florida Division of Cultural Affairs and supported by the Flagler District BID.

Carolina Toncovich + I Must Levitate

Carolina Toncovich (@carolina_toncovich on instagram) is an artistic skater from Neuquén, Patagonia, characterized by her freestyle, where her skates become brushes that slide on canvas and screens.

I Must Levitate, Electronic musician, music producer, recording engineer, guitarist, music software programmer, graphic artist, maker: a multi-instrumentalist and artist to the core Ron Huneycutt is passionate about getting his hands on just about anything creative. Even his artist name, I Must Levitate, is a direct reference to this life-long need to be immersed in the creative process.

I performed 3 times for Olympia Theater during 2021

These are the paintings that I made during my performance on
