Education

September 2006 - July 2008

University of West Georgia, Carrollton, GA

During my years here I made the best friends in the world and met my chosen family. I learned how to use my artistic talents to feed myself. I did hair, nails, created custom clothing, threw parties and shows, hired DJs and Security Guards out of my friend's apartment to make enough money for a teriyaki sandwich that week. And by doing so, I learned how to DJ, network, truly hustle, try new things and have a good time.

Awards

The most rewarding experience in my music career so far was performing at a concert for people who are deaf. My partner, Lam and I curated our show with lots of visuals and I decided to play very low chords as well as juxtaposing high notes so that the audience members could feel what we were playing. We got applause in the form of the audience waving their hands which is sign language for appreciation. I felt relieved that we were able to convey music in a world of silence and grateful for the experience.
