I am currently seeking employment while currently attending nursing school. I have been in the medical field over 15 years. That experience comes with great communication skills, taking, recording vital signs, input, output, and using different lifts etc. I also hold the title of a talented Singer/Songwriter/Influencer. I basically love to care for others it makes me feel a sensation of appreciation. I know that brings good vibes to the company even though I know some people no matter what sometimes you still won't please them. That's just called respecting others opinions so that doesn't bother me because the key to success is knowing you did the right thing on your end. We can't control others actions, but you can control your own. Thank you in advance for taking out the time to read a little about me, and my experience.

Willing to relocate: Anywhere

Authorized to work in the US for any employer
