

Professional Summary

I am currently self-employed as a content creator for Brittany Bhulai Media L.L.C. I specialize in providing clients with videography, photography and written content. I recently graduated from The King's College located in Manhattan, New York with a bachelor's degree in Journalism, Culture and Society. Prior to launching my own business, I worked in the field as a journalist for media outlets such as the New York Daily News. In addition, I have held editorial positions with college newspapers while pursuing my higher education in mass communications.
