SKILLS

- Emotion Control: Actors must have the ability to tap into and control a wide range of emotions. They should be able to convey joy, sadness, anger, fear, and more authentically, depending on the requirements of the character and the scene
- Physicality: Physicality encompasses body language, movement, and physical expression. Actors should have control over their bodies and be able to use physicality effectively to convey emotions, gestures, and mannerisms of the character they are portraying.
- Versatility: A skilled actor should be versatile and able to adapt to different roles and genres. They should be able to convincingly portray characters from various time periods, cultural backgrounds, and personalities.
- Voice and Diction: Clear and effective communication is crucial in acting. Actors should have good vocal control, diction, and the ability to modulate their voice to suit different characters and situations. This includes projecting their voice, articulating words clearly, and using proper intonation and emphasis.

- Improvisation: Improvisational skills are valuable for actors, especially in live theater or when unexpected situations arise on set. Being able to think quickly on their feet, adapt to changes, and respond spontaneously helps actors maintain the flow of a scene and stay in character.
- Audience Engagement
- Makeup Artistry
- Casting Collaboration
- Time Management
- Script Adherence
- Skilled Problem Solver
- Rehearsing Scenes
- Reading Scripts
- Collaboration and Teamwork: Acting involves working closely with directors, fellow actors, and crew members. A good actor should be able to collaborate effectively, take direction, and work as part of a team to bring a production to life. This includes being receptive to feedback, being respectful of others' ideas, and maintaining a positive and professional attitude.
- Origination Knowledge
- Performance Improvement
- Script Interpretation
- Rehearsal Coordination
- Memorize Lines
- Following Directions
- Television Production
