WORK EXPERIENCE

Dispatcher

I have been a dispatcher since around November 2020. I dispatch 18 wheelers from state to state or city to city. I have a load board in which loads gets posted, my job is to look on the load board and find loads for my drivers. I call the brokers and I negotiate prices with them, I then explain the load details to my drivers such as rates, rate per mile, commodity, and the equipment he will need for the load. If the driver likes the load I take it. MY job requires me to know where my driver is and will be, I have to set appointments and I have to keep the brokers updated on where the load is and eta for pick up and delivery. I also have to coordinate and use my map to help the driver find the place for offloading or loading when the directions don't take him directly there, if there is an issue I have to contact the broker and figure it out. so, my drivers rely on me for a lot of things not just booking loads. My job can be frustrating, sometimes brokers cancel loads last minute which means I have to adjust and problem solve and figure out a plan B. Since I need drivers for my job I sometimes have to go to truck yards and talk to drivers which means I have to be friendly and outgoing. I talk to drivers, listen to their needs and explain to them why we can be successful working together.
