

manii IVERSON

Infinitely fascinating and unpredictable, Manii Iverson is a true force of nature. The Cleveland-born singer-songwriter and rapper caught the attention of radio when she began pushing her single “Wanna Be” and its companion video. Within 2 months, Manii was not only getting airplay for the single but also telling her story with an in-studio interview at iHeartRadio.

Instead of allowing the fickle nature of life to carry her toward a destiny she longed for, Manii routed her energy into crafting music that speaks concisely and unabashedly about her life. The actual crafting of the music is also something that should be mentioned and is sure to surprise fans. That being, Manii doesn’t actually write her electric songs, but literally freestyles them in the studio. No paper, no pen, just a microphone, Manii and her feelings.

When you listen to the songs Manii has crafted, you hear how she effortlessly massages together her own fusion of Hip-Hop, Gospel and Soul. As intentional as she is with laying a verse about the confidence it takes to overcome life’s difficulties, Manii doesn’t hesitate to flip the script and get gritty about people who have betrayed her in life.

Manii Iverson is a passionate communicator, and her music is proof of that. Follow along as she blesses the world with her music while putting her resilience on vivid display.
