MODEL

ABOUT ME

I am an aspiring model and a dedicated medical student with a passion for blending beauty, health, and science. As a woman of color, I take pride in representing diversity in both the fashion and medical fields. My journey is driven by a commitment to break barriers and challenge stereotypes.

In addition to my academic pursuits, I am an athlete who believes in the power of physical fitness and its positive impact on mental well-being. My experiences as a clinical researcher have deepened my understanding of the medical field, allowing me to contribute to advancements in healthcare while pursuing my studies.

Balancing my roles in modeling, medicine, and athletics, I aim to inspire others to embrace their multifaceted identities and pursue their dreams with determination and grace.
