

That's how I remember you

We met at an inn in an oasis city in the desert.

To be honest, I didn't like you, and I thought you hated me too.

We rented this place by the Erhai Lake and lived here for six months.

You adopted a stray dog and named him Malo.

Malo is a bit dazed, among all the dogs, you love him the most.

We painted the door green

Malo on the door was painted by me.

Malo don't like this color.

You said: stop talking nonsense, he is colorblind.

The man on the right is Huang Long,

Huang Long's grandma was the champion of the first beauty pageant in Venezuela.

He sings on the street, warmly embrace us when we met.

Dali is not the same utopia as it once was before, Huang Long is the only one here that has not changed.

Later, Huang Long came out of the closet.

One of the advantages of living by Erhai Lake is that there are many choices. Choose diving, choose swimming, choose paddling, choose to buy a set of cold-proof clothes in winter, and choosing to paddle far or close so that you can choose not to let tourists passing by take pictures of me.

You came to Shenzhen to visit my parents.

In the hotel, you said you wanted to take pictures of me, and I said: come in and take a shower together.

My dad doesn't agree with us being together.

That day was the first time I saw you cry.

On the way back to Dali we rested
in the service area.

The man next to you has stinky feet.

You look a little unhappy.

You ask me that we commit to die together

I said yes.

Then I lay down on the grass pretending I died at 24.

I met your friends you grew up with in Lanzhou.

The one in the middle of the photo told me you have a “Lucky Dick”, because every girlfriend you’ve been with has gone abroad.

We are in Bali

You are silly

diving with a motorcycle helmet on your head.

03:17PM

This is our secret base

Every time we finish surfing we will ride a small motorcycle and sit on this wall for a while.

On the way to the beach, we had a big fight.

I was so angry that I jumped out of the car.

You didn't come back to find me.

You are naive, you have to win in everything, and we often quarrel. But I have no reason not to love you.

I like your body, your arrogance, your black humor, I like the way you hate the world but still embrace it.

We are similar human beings, I knew it when I met you.

You love to surf, but I'm afraid of the ocean. When I first learn surfing at Basque in France, you promised to be a good coach, but I ended up getting out of the water with my feet cut and bleeding from the rocks.

Malo has passed away,
Our neighbor said it still went out every day when we were away,
He already learnt to look both ways before crossing the street like it did before, but the man who drove the car didn't learn to look back before reversing.
Malo was laid to rest on the tea hill to the east,
When we went to visit, we met a cat that looked just like Malo.

"If you were ten years older than me, would we still quarrel often?"

"I don't know, can you stop imagining things that can't happen?"

At the age of 24 life is open in front of you

Turn left,
you can still live innocently,

to the right,
you have to start thinking about the future seriously.

Both of us are people who like to indulge in innocence, the real world is toxic to us.

None of us want to step into reality.

My 24th has passed

the cans of my innocence seem to have expired.

Would you take me to Paris to bask in the sun if we travel together again?"
