

MANIFESTO

The existence of known is limited, art, science or philosophy...
When we seek to know the world for building it, the unknown surrounds us, and embraces us.

The world has its language, with its flow having regularity.
We are a big Unity, as we are points and line segments in the whole world stream.

There's no necessity for us to define ourselves in one social category.
It's the complexity of thinking and experiencing making people awake.
It's the unique actions and thoughts that make separate spirits encounter.
It's abstract.
It's reality.
It's stone.

We question, question, and question, and strive to ask good questions.

We hug the change, and everything.

Use our every little bit of strength, to know more, and be listening:
what does the world tell us?
And in the meanwhile, be happy.

Be brave.
Be positive.
Be sensitive.
Be strong.

Be the changemaker.
Be the revolutionary.
Be the happy force to drive society forward.
Be speaking.