Arnold Palmer’s spirit was seemingly omnipresent at the 2016 Ryder Cup. The King had passed away the Sunday before the matches and both sides felt the loss. As a tribute to the former Ryder Cup player and captain, Palmer’s 1975 Captain’s bag rested on the first tee, and containing three of his favorite woods.

The on-course storyline of the biennial matches was U.S. Captain Davis Love III’s chance at Ryder Cup redemption after the 2012 matches at Medinah. The European Team, meanwhile, included six rookies, the most since 2010. While Thomas Pieters of Belgium won four of his five matches, Europe’s other five first-timers were only 3-8-1. The Americans’ early sweep of the Friday morning foursomes was their first 4-0 session since Laurel Valley in 1975, when Palmer captained near his hometown. While the Europeans would stay within shouting distance at 5-3 after the first day and 9½-6½ after the second day, the USA took the Sunday singles (7½ to 4½) and the match for the 26th time, 17 to 11.
