TERRAVITA'S FEEDING YOUR SOUL: A GOODNESS WORKSHOP

8:30 AM TO 3:30 PM

Manns Chapel, 175 Poythress Rd Chapel Hill

Admission: $115. For our first Goodness Workshop, we will embark on a day of refreshing our spirit through activities in a day-long retreat at The Parlour at Manns Chapel. This intimate experience will offer a fun creative kick-off with some yoga, meditation, added inspirational insight from a couple of special guests, and guidance on connecting with your inner voice. We'll have good nutritional guidance from the experts with healthy delicious snacks and lunch. Laura McKowen will guide the group on connecting with their truest inner voice and bringing it to life. Chef Scott Crawford of Crawford and Son will share his story of redemption and his journey to finding life balance through life-changing choices and perseverance. Most materials will be provided, but you will need to bring your own yoga mat (you can also purchase one when you buy your tickets, if you don't have one of your own). Tickets to this all-day workshop and lunch are $115. Ticketholder must be 21 or older. www.terravitafest.com

TERRAVITA'S INTO THE WILD: FEASTING ON THE FORAGED

10 AM TO 2 PM

The Barn of Chapel Hill, 7316 Morrow Mill Road Chapel Hill

Admission: $65. Foraging has become one of the hottest food trends – it's hip, yet historic. The "forest-to-table" movement combines the childlike thrill of a scavenger hunt with the satisfaction of a good deal, since preparing a meal with flowers, foliage, fungi, and fruit procured from the land (as local as "eating local" can get) costs little to nothing. There are some rules of the game, however – and our experts will map it out for you! At The Barn of Chapel Hill, a charming educational farm on the edge of Orange County, a small group (no more than two dozen) will head into the woods in search of wild edibles, led by experts from the Piedmont Picnic Project. Once you return, you will reap the benefits of your bounty with a wild cocktail class, led by our friends from Fair Game Beverage Company. Using previously foraged ingredients, chef Clark Barlowe of Heirloom will prepare a delicious lunch and give us a little post-polish on his foraging techniques before we head home. Get ready - it's bound to be a wild time! Tickets are $65. You must be 21 or older to attend. Tickets on sale now: terravitafest.com

LUNCHBOX TALK

NOON TO 1 PM

NC Botanical Garden, 100 Old Mason Farm Road Chapel Hill (919) 962-0522

LUNCHBOX Talk: Masting and Other Tricks to Beat the Herbivores with Bob Peet, Professor of Biology, UNC-Chapel Hill. The world is full of animals that eat plants, so there is strong selection for traits that protect plants from these consumers, or at least limit their success. We will explore some of the resulting diversity of traits that plants have evolved to protect themselves ranging from timing of events to chemical properties. About LUNCHBOX Talks: Bring your lunch and join us for a free lecture! Pre-registration required. ncbg.unc.edu/

TERRAVITA'S SEASONED IN THE SOUTH: A TRIBUTE TO BILL SMITH

6 PM TO 9:30 PM

The Barn of Chapel Hill, 7316 Morrow Mill Rd Chapel Hill

Bill Smith has cemented and expanded the Crook's Corner legacy since 1993, preserving its classic dishes such as shrimp and grits, Mount Airy chocolate souffle cake and Hoppin' John, while adding his own trademarks like house-cured eastern North Carolina corned ham, soft shell crabs, artichoke relish, honeysuckle sorbet and green peach salad. Like Chapel Hill itself, Bill (a 50-year-resident) embodies both the traditions of the South – speaking often about the influence of his grandmothers' and aunts' cooking growing up in New Bern – and the open-mindedness of the area's educated population, as he works outside of the kitchen to promote music, dance, literature and social justice. While the late Bill Neal has been credited with giving Southern cuisine a strong national platform, Bill Smith has advanced it. At this familial dinner featuring surprise cameos, chefs who consider Bill Smith a mentor and a hero will honor him with courses served in a beautiful barn on the edge of Orange County. Evenings like this – and chefs like Bill Smith – don't come around often. Tickets: $120. Must be 21 or older. www.terravitafest.com
